Fire Rouses Rich Guests Out Of Beds

DETROIT (AP) — Almost 1,000 persons, including some of the world's wealthiest and most influential men, were endangered Friday by a big fire in downtown Detroit's Statler Hilton Hotel.

While eight firemen suffered burns or injuries or were overcome by smoke, all guests escaped unhurt.

Fire Chief Glenn Thom estimated damages at $250,000, and he said it was a miracle there was no loss of life.

GM Chief Flees

Among 994 guests routed by the predawn blaze was a majority of the board of directors of General Motors Corp., including the chairman, Frederic G. Donner, here for a GM stockholders' meeting Friday.

Firemen said the blaze began, possibly from a smoldering cigarette, on a food dolly in a service area on the eighth floor. It spread upward into other service areas of the 15-story hotel.

These areas, 60 by 20 feet, have corridor-connecting fire doors which were shut and prevented the fire from spreading.

The first alarm was sounded at 2:07 a.m. Thom rated it under control by 150 firemen at 3 a.m. Hotel manager Frank Teich estimated renovation will require 30 days.

Multimillionaire Charles Stewart Mott, a General Motors director from Flint, Mich., who will be 90 in just 12 days, plodded down stairs for 10 stories and then led half dozen guests he found milling about on the second floor to a fire escape and street-level safety.

Besides Donner and Mott, other GM directors routed included:

John L. Pratt of Fredericksburg, Va., a former GM vice president and holder of GM stock worth approximately $85 million; Graham F. Towers, chairman of Canada Life Assurance Co.; William Whiteford of Pittsburgh, chairman of Gulf Oil Corp.

Strikers Hold Latin Officers

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Striking tin miners in Milluni, about 25 miles north of La Paz, have seized five air force officers and sergeants as hostages, it was reported Friday night.

Two Argentine cameramen for U.S. stations, Luis Alberto Chouino and Hermex Munoz, said they visited the area. They said some 200 soldiers are near the mine, ready to attack, and that the well-armed miners are ready to fight back.

The cameramen, the first newsmen to visit the Aferite mine since the call of a general strike last Monday to protest the ouster of leftist union leader Juan Lechin, said three officers and two air force sergeants had been seized.

Afraid that government planes were going to attack the Huaynapotosi radio station, the miners tied the five men to the radio's main antenna, the cameramen reported.

Bolivian Air Force planes dropped leaflets at the country's tin mining centers, urging the striking miners to return to work.

Senate Prepares To Choke Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders moved Friday to choke off debate on President Johnson's Negro voting rights bill. A survey of senators bolstered Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen's forecast of success in the showdown next Tuesday.

But a band of uncommitted or unannounced senators, most of them Republicans, appeared to hold the balance in the cloture vote that will come one hour after the Senate begins its 24th day of debate on the measure.

If the two-thirds vote needed to halt the debate is mustered, it will be the second time the Senate has invoked its cloture rule on a civil rights bill.

That first happened a year ago, on a 71-29 vote. If all 100 senators vote, it will take 67 of them to push across the cloture move. That would limit each senator to one more hour of talk on the measure the Senate began debating April 22.

Among senators who have made their positions known, in an Associated Press survey or through their public stands on the action, 25 were against cloture.

Fifty-eight senators made known their support of the debate-ending move, in the poll or by signing the petition.

Other senators were not available for comment, undecided or unwilling to announce their positions.

Last year's cloture vote came on the 75th day of debate, after a southern filibuster that kept the Senate meeting early and working nights. This time there have been no long hours, and the bill's southern foes have not staged a real filibuster.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Nebr., who voted for cloture in 1964, cited the different circumstances in announcing he will vote against it next week.

"I favor cloture ultimately, but not now," Curtis said.

Only the Nebraskan publicly announced a switch from his 1964 position. But another bloc of senators who favored cloture last year said they are undecided about Tuesday's vote.

UK's Mideast Plans Known, Paper Says

CAIRO (AP) — The newspaper Al Ahrar reported Friday the United Arab Republic has secret British defense documents indicating Britain's future military plans in the Middle East will be directed mainly against Cairo and Arab nationalism.

In his weekly article, Mohamed Hassanein Heikal, President Nasser's chief spokesman, said the documents contain basic 1965-70 British military strategy, particularly for the Mideast. He claimed the documents were signed by Lord Mountbatten as chief of the British defense staff and by other military leaders.

Heikal said the documents originally were handed to the Iraqi military attaché in London last March by British Army Sgt. Percy Sidney Allan who was tried, convicted and sentenced this month to 10 years for selling secrets. Heikal claimed the documents "found their way to Cairo in another way — not through Allan or Iraqi or Egyptian attaches."

Heikal said the documents show Britain considers the Middle East "the most important area for Britain in the outside world due to its wealth in high-ways, oil resources and the presence of British bases."

And Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, said he is not prepared to say what decision he has made.

Hickenlooper had said earlier he was leaning toward a vote in favor of cloture.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., filed the cloture petition, acting for Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. Thirty-seven senators, eight of them Republicans, signed it. Under Senate rules, 16 signatures were required.

While neither Hart nor Mansfield has ventured a forecast of the outcome, Dirksen has declared he thinks the move will succeed. He said the Senate is weary of debating the measure.

Recuperating

Henry Florsheim Jr., 16, of 2000 Spencer, Monroe, is reported "doing well" after receiving a broken leg during a Dixie Senior baseball game here Monday night. He left the hospital Wednesday and is now settled in as comfortably as possible at home.

A Neville student, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Florsheim Sr. He will finish out his studies this year on crutches — but is out of baseball for the season. His greatest consolation is the fact that he is battling 1,000 for the season — he connected for a hit the first time up and was sliding into third base when the injury occurred.

Postal Panel Recommends Hike In Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — An advisory panel called Friday night for a postage rate increase and elimination of preferential rates to help overcome the operating deficit of the Post Office Department, now about $762 million a year.

The panel also endorsed a proposal to merge first-class and airmail into a single class of mail to be moved by the quickest means, whether by air or surface. If this is done, it said, the present five-cent rate on first-class mail should be increased.

Cites Urgent Need

In fact, the panel said, there is an urgent need for the rate increases, "and the size of the deficit suggests that few, if any categories of mail should be exempt from rate increases."

It said the postal service should pay its full costs from postal receipts.

The seven-member panel was named by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski last January to assist him in developing policy on postal rates.

Postal officials emphasized at a news conference that its recommendations are not binding. In a statement, Gronouski said, "While there are some points with which we may not agree, it is a most thoughtful and hold report and I expect to find it very useful in shaping the financial policies of the Post Office Department."

The panel's first recommendation called for discontinuance of the preferential rates which it said now account for nearly $300 million of the $500 million in tax-supported public service costs.

The reduced rates apply to publications of nonprofit groups such as churches and labor unions and to books, phonograph records and other educational materials.

The panel report noted that Congress has the power to extend subsidies on postage as a matter of national policy. It added that "if subsidies are justified they should be directly paid from Treasury funds rather than indirectly via postal rates."

The other recommendations of the panel included:

—Pay the cost of rural facilities in full from postal revenues. Under present law part of the cost is considered public service.

—Continue the cost-ascertainment system, apportioning costs of various mail categories on a fully allocated basis. Change second-class rates, giving greater emphasis to basic piece handling charges for each copy.

In classifying mail, the panel proposed that the entire system be revised.

Norway Vessel Caught In Gale; 2 Men Missing

NEW YORK (AP) — A small Norwegian motor freighter foundered in a North Atlantic gale Friday, but 25 of her crew were taken aboard quickly converging rescue ships. Two other crewmen are missing.

The two sailors were riding a life raft and appeared on the brink of being picked up. The raft overturned, however, and they were swept out of sight in high seas. A search for them continued.

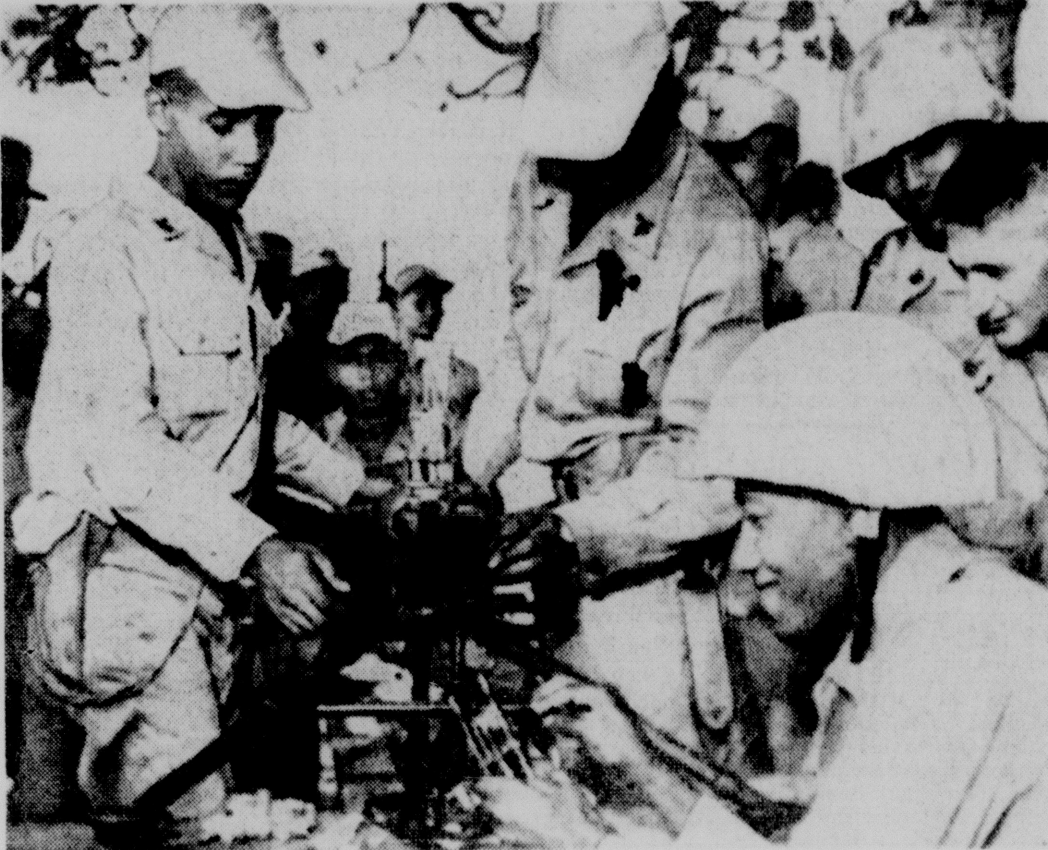

The ship, the 2,200-ton Lionne sent out a radio distress signal at 4:30 a.m. She reported an engine room leak, but did not give the cause.

The 326-foot vessel was 740 miles off Cape Farewell, Greenland, and 807 miles off Newfoundland at the time the Coast Guard logged her position. Waves as high as 18 feet and winds gusting up to 45 knots added to her peril.

By midmorning a Coast Guard plane circling the scene reported her sinking at a rate of almost two feet an hour.

The British Cunard liner Sylvia, bound from Liverpool to New York, picked up 12 of the Lionne's crewmen. Thirteen others, including the master, were taken aboard the 12,700-ton Norwegian tanker Raia, en route from Canada to Venezuela.

He published a photocopy of what he termed "part of the principal document signed by Mountbatten."

Special Rule Invoked For All Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — The government Friday decreed a state of siege or modified martial law throughout Colombia following widespread student disorders.

The measure was announced at 4 a.m. after a seven-hour cabinet meeting.

The government's action banned public demonstrations — there have been street riots in at least four cities in the past 11 days — and authorized departmental (provincial) governors and the mayor of Bogota to impose a curfew, censorship and ban the sale of alcohol.

Remains In Session

The decree specified that Congress should remain in session during the emergency to aid the government in reestablishing public order.

The student problems started 11 days ago in Medellin and have since extended to Bogota, Bucaramanga and Barranquilla. About 30,000 students have been affected by the disorders which started when police in Medellin clashed with students demonstrating against U. S. troop landings in Santo Domingo.

Police chased rioting students into the University of Antioquia, thus violating its traditional autonomy, and this resulted in further protests and the resignation of the rector.

The disorders in the other cities have been more or less of a "sympathy" nature with the cause of the Medellin students.

The decree imposing the state of siege, announced by President Guillermo Leon Valencia, referred also to public disorders related to "attempts against liberty, life and property."

Partly Cloudy Skies Forecast

Residents of the Twin Cities can expect another partly cloudy weekend, if the weatherman's predictions are correct. Partly cloudy skies are forecast today and Sunday with showers affecting 20 to 30 percent of the area mainly in the afternoons.

High temperatures of 83 to 87 are forecast today with a low of 65 to 70 expected tonight. Friday's high was 87 and the low 68. This compared with a high of 92 and low of 66 the previous year at the same time. There is a possibility of 50 per cent sunshine today.

Rainfall activity, according to the weather prediction, will amount to one quarter inch or less. FAA at Selman Field recorded .13 inch of rain Friday.

Arrests Head Off New Saigon Coup

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Assassination of key Vietnamese civilian and military leaders was officially described Friday as one aim of a plot crushed through a series of overnight raids.

Premier Phan Huy Quat declared Viet Cong elements as well as chronic Vietnamese dissidents were involved.

A Vietnamese spokesman said the zero hour for launching of the conspiracy to topple the government and the military high command was 11 p.m. Thursday. But loyal forces got wind of it in the afternoon and launched swift counteraction.

One Officer Shot

One rebel officer, Capt. Huynh Tan Hung, was shot dead and 33 suspects were arrested in the roundup. The spokesman said Hung was killed trying to escape.

Among the prisoners was Lt. Col. Le Hoanh Thao, former commander of the 46th Infantry Regiment, a participant in the abortive coup of Feb. 19.

Hunted as the leader of this third attempted uprising in the last eight months was Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, a former press officer at the Vietnamese Embassy in Washington. Also wanted is Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat. Both are under death sentences imposed in absentia for past antigovernment activities. They are believed to be hiding in the Saigon area.

Quat charged that Viet Cong elements took part in the conspiracy along with ringleaders.

Russian Denies Aiding Cypriots

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko hotly denied Friday reports that Russia had sent anti-aircraft missiles to Cyprus.

At the same time, Gromyko, here on a five-day official visit, reiterated a Soviet view on the Cyprus question which appeared to back the Turkish side in the dispute.

Gromyko made the statements at a news conference in the Soviet Embassy.

Newsmen reminded Gromyko that the Greek Cypriot minister of the interior and defense, Polycarpus Georgiadis, earlier this week said Cyprus has purchased Soviet-made missiles.

Gromyko branded such statements as lies.

Girl Sends Money But Can't Get Yogi

NEW YORK (AP) — "He would make a cute toy," Maxine Siegel, 17, said Friday after offering to buy the Mets' Yogi Berra for $1.

"I always loved Yogi even when he was a member of the Yankees," she added. "He always seemed so good-natured. He was always talking to the other players. He's a doll."

Maxine, a freshman at City College of New York, became concerned the other day when New York Mets' catcher-coach had been placed on waivers for $1.

So she sat down and wrote the following letter to the Mets' front office:

"To whom it may concern: 'I read in the paper a few weeks ago that Yogi Berra was on waivers for one dollar. Since I have been a Yogi Berra fan for many years now and it doesn't seem like anyone really wants him I thought I would buy him. Enclosed you will find my check for the sum of $1.'

"Sincerely, 'Maxine Siegel.' The Mets' officials admitted they were placed in an uncomfortable position by the unique offer.

"It's true we did put Yogi on waivers for $1 but it was only a technicality," a spokesman explained. "Before the May 11 cutdown date it was decided to take Yogi off the player roster and confine him to coaching duties."

"To do this, we had to release him technically and then get him back. We put him on waivers. Naturally, no one would claim him — it's a gentleman's agreement among clubs."

"This development caught us off guard."

It's no joke to Maxine, who says she and her older sister Joyce never miss a Mets night game.

After her offer became public, the slender, dark-haired coed was besieged with offers to appear on radio and television.

"Everybody asks what I'd do with Yogi if I got him," she said. "I tell them I'd take him to school and show him off to all my friends."

Yogi, in Milwaukee with the Mets, said it was nice to know he was in such demand but he doubted that the deal would go through.

"She must have me mixed up with that television character, Yogi Bear," he said.

Old Theme Makes For Top Comedy

By JOHN CALE
World Staff Critic

A mixed quintet of actors and actresses went to work on the old theme of "can this marriage be saved?" to open the windup run for Little Theatre's 32nd season Friday evening. The piece is Jean Kerr's "Mary, Mary," and somehow we feel the top flight recipe reached a state of coincidence with the ingredients better than in any straight play on the local stage this season.

In the field of music, the serious players realize they're really on the spot when they have to perform the chamber works — three, four or five piece ensembles. Perhaps this was the case with "Mary, Mary." The cast knew each theme had to come through. But we can't overlook direction in a touch-and-go situation. Certainly the points of tension, laughter, timed pauses, timing the lines — or just pacing the floor — all fell to Director Lonny Frazee for decision and rehearsal. While this was the best written vehicle he has dealt with thus far, we also realize even a good play won't run itself. This one ran smoothly for the opening night audience.

There must be some reason why a play carries on for 1572 performances on Broadway. "Mary, Mary" held up for such duration without an orchestra in the pit, animals on the stage or a strip — tease in Act II.

There were also no four-letter interjections tossed in for what some playwrights seem to think is a bureau of standard specification for that sort of thing. Adult comedy it is, but reasonably so.

The married couple, played by Dr. George Brian and Alice Magourik, had seen their match go on the rocks, and the man was seeking what he thought was a more attractive, second mate in the person of Tiffany Richards (played by Cherry Moberley). Incidentally, Moberley carried off a fine debut before the Little Theatre first nighters in a cast of obvious veterans.

This leaves us with two men: a lawyer (Tom Keller), and a genuine glamour boy of the big-time Hollywood era (Garland Moore). If this was Moore's rounding out of an even dozen local theatre parts — as stated on the program — he was cast as a 12th — night natural. He projected himself into the role far better than on any previous occasion, perhaps because he was able to recall the type screen lover called for. There are several of us around who remember the days and the people.

Comeback
Somebody also said this was a comeback for City Engineer Tom Keller, who took the part of lawyer Oscar Nelson. His was the dry wit of the ensemble, and after he found his voice level after Act I, it came through splendidly.
Someone once said of George Brian that he had forgotten more about plays and the stage than most people will ever learn. On top of this, he can warm up his audience make the other members of the cast feel at home. Some of his gestures were a trifle overdone Friday evening — perhaps the stiffened forearm and the pointed forefinger — but he never lost the spirit of the part.
Alice Magourik was ideally cast as the rejected wife, "Mary, Mary" herself. The beautiful illogic through which she was able to regain her home came through well by way of her personality. How do you find a good "Mary?" Easy — just get Alice to play the part.
Generally speaking, Little Theatre is closing its present season on a most pleasant note.

Oil Association Says Farm Relief Bill To Be Costly

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Oil Marketers Association charged Friday a Senate bill exempting all farm vehicles from the provisions of the state's special fuels tax would cost the state $1 to $3 million a year if it is approved.
The bill authored by 28 senators, has already been accepted as a fiscal measure.
The measure is mainly devoted to technical wordage about record-keeping by owners of trucks using butane and diesel fuels.

Chamber Drive In West Monroe Is Successful

West Monroe Chamber of Commerce workers Friday recruited 38 new member firms and individuals in an all-day membership drive termed by President Ralph Reed "marvelous and very successful."

"Many membership cards still are out because the prospects couldn't be seen personally, and we expect a final total of maybe 50 new members before we're finished," the Chamber leader said.

About 24 workers were in the field Friday in competition for campaign prizes. Reed himself, with S. W. Jackson, was a member of the third place-winning recruitment team.

The top team, which signed nine new members, was composed of Bert Hatten and Homer Roark. They received electric carving knives.

The second place winners, Leslie Hamm, drive co-chairman, and Ray Niswanger, received drink coolers, while Reed and Jackson won tackle boxes.

Reed and Chamber Manager Eugene Smith had special praise for Drive Chairman Tex Kilpatrick, who, with A. T. Harrelson, also was near the top in a close race for best recruiting.

Among other workers represented at a 5 p.m. report meeting Friday were Bob Kennedy, Roy Tuzin, Roy Brooks, Chuck Morgan, Sam Yeager, Bill King and Eugene Scott.

Official Reports
Poverty Affects 30 Million In U.S.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Thirty million Americans live in poverty — about 17 per cent of the population — the head of the Social Security Administration said Friday.

Robert M. Ball said a study by his agency produced this figure of those "who essentially must choose between having enough to eat and some basic necessary such as adequate housing."

"Our measure of poverty takes into account varying age and family composition and whether the family lives in the city or in rural areas," Ball said.

The nation's Social Security administrator said a city family with two parents and two children and an income of $3,100 is not considered poor. "In the country this same family would not be considered poor if it had an annual income of $1,900," he said.

Ball, speaking at the Arizona Conference on Social Welfare, said one-third to one-half of the poverty "could be prevented by the improvement and broader application of the social insurance principal."

Pentagon Duo Viet Nam Forces Convicted Of To Be Increased Fund Misuse

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — Two former Pentagon officials were convicted Friday night on several charges of misusing government funds, including money reportedly spent on top secret research projects in South Viet Nam.

Found guilty by a federal jury were:

William H. Godel, 43, a former $20,000-a-year deputy research director for management in the Pentagon's advanced research projects, and John A. Wylie, 58, a former $17,500-a-year official who headed the budget and finance branch in the department's administrative office.

Godel was dismissed from his position Aug. 24, 1964. Wylie retired last year.

A U.S. District Court jury of nine men and three women returned the verdict at 9:55 p.m. EDT after more than 25 hours of deliberation over a three-day period.

A pre-sentencing hearing was set for Monday.

The federal court jury found Godel and Wylie guilty of conspiring to "defraud the United States by depriving it of its money and property."

The Justice Department said that the two had performed a total of 31 overt actions, involving the transaction of $20,450 in government funds as part of the fraud conspiracy.

Godel also was found guilty of making a false statement that $10,000 was needed to set up a special Viet Nam research project.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be a steady increase in the number of American troops, including combat forces, sent to Viet Nam, authoritative sources said Friday.

The additional troops may amount to a 50 per cent increase over the approximately 50,000 now in Viet Nam, it was learned.

Officials said that if a decision is made for the American troops to take a more active combat role, the manpower will be in position to carry out such orders.

For the present, it is planned that additional forces will be used to extend the defensive perimeters around areas from which U.S. and Vietnamese aircraft are operating.

No one has set an absolute figure on what the total requirement may be in the future. But for the immediate period ahead, a total of 75,000 American troops in South Viet Nam is called "not unrealistic."

The question of a more direct combat role will "speak for itself as time and circumstances evolve," a well-placed source said. "We expect a more direct combat role."

As a result of the increased manpower demands in Viet Nam, the Los Angeles Times reported Friday, the formation of a new Marine Corps division through a call-up of reserves is being seriously considered by the Defense Department.

The newspaper said this may become necessary because of the dispatch of the 1st Marine Division from Camp Pendleton, Calif., to Okinawa to replace 3rd Marine Division units recently moved from the island to South Viet Nam.

A Defense Department spokesman said "there are no plans at this time to call Marine Corps reserves." The Pentagon refused to comment on the reported plan to move the 1st Marine Division from California.

On May 7, the U.S. Military Advisory Command in Viet Nam said there were 42,200 American troops including 18,800 Army; 1,800 Navy; 9,300 Air Force and 12,300 Marines. The figure now is reported to have reached a total of 48,000.

The hardening U.S. attitude resulted from the rebuff to President Johnson's offer of April 7 for unconditional discussions with North Viet Nam. Although the offer has been repeated, there has been no response.

Child Abuse Is Said On Increase

By HELEN B. SHAFFER
Editorial Research Report
WASHINGTON — Widespread concern over the most abhorrent of all forms of violence — physical brutality toward children — has led to a wave of enactments by state legislatures of laws requiring doctors to report suspected cases of child abuse. Two years ago only one state — California — had such a law. Today 35 states require medical personnel to report such cases, and their laws hold the doctors immune from any damage suits that may result from their reports. In addition, two states have adopted laws immunizing doctors from civil suits if they voluntarily report child abuse cases. Veteran lobbyists for child welfare reforms recall no other case in which state legislatures have responded so quickly and in such large numbers to a plea for corrective legislation.

Evidence
The reason is that the country has become aroused by evidence that severe maltreatment of children by parents is more prevalent than had been realized. Much of the maltreatment occurs behind the closed doors of middle-class homes and cannot be reached by public authorities unless suspected cases are reported by responsible individuals. Because the doctor, either in private practice or on a hospital staff, is in the best position to make a reliable judgment on whether a child's injuries are the result of assault, authorities thought it wise to require reporting only by members of the medical profession. Reporting a child abuse case is the first step toward giving protection to young victims of parental cruelty. Child welfare leaders are now pressing for establishment of special child protection facilities which would provide expert investigation of reported cases, social welfare services to the family, and competent decisions, especially in regard to future custody of an injured child, which would be in the best interest of all concerned.

The term "battered child syndrome" has come into use to refer to the most severely mistreated of all physically abused children. Not until a few years ago did medical people, especially X-ray specialists, begin to notice the curious concurrence of such injuries as bone fractures, head swellings, and certain internal damage in babies and very young children. By the early 1960s, the concept of the battered child syndrome had been formulated and public awareness of the seriousness of the problem had begun to spread.

Dr. C. Henry Kempe of the University of Chicago, who led one of the first medical investigations of the problem, told the American Academy of Pediatrics in 1961 that parental assault was a significant cause of child crippling and death. He observed, however, that many doctors did not recognize it. In a report published the following year in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Kempe described typical features of the battered child syndrome: multiple injuries including bone breaks and bruises, X-ray evidence of internal injuries incurred at various times in the past, leg and arm injuries combined with head injuries, and injuries to tissue connecting bone to muscle (caused by rough grasping and swinging of the child). The younger the victim, the more suspicious the case; many were babies, the majority were under three years of age.

The actual extent of child battering is unknown. The American Humane Association has cited an "educated estimate" of up to 10,000 cases a year. A survey of newspaper reports in 48 states and the District of Columbia showed 662 cases in 1962, but the actual incidence of child abuse is no doubt much greater.

A Search
A number of studies have been conducted in search of an answer to the question of what kind of person it is who attacks his (or her) young child viciously and repeatedly. These studies make a distinction between battering parents and those who strike their children in anger or impatience or while drunk but show normal affection at other times. Although children of the latter suffer, psychiatric or social casework may produce improvement in the home situation that will be of more benefit to the child than removing him to a foster home or an institution.

The child-battering parent appears to be in a class by himself. Leontine Young, a social worker who made an intensive study of 300 child abuse cases, found that such a parent was not given to excited outbursts of cruelty but maintained a coldly and consistently punitive attitude toward the child. The mechanism of such parental behavior is still not understood by investigators. One salient fact has emerged from their studies: most child-battering parents were themselves victims of parental cruelty. They thus seem to be taking out on their children the resentment they felt toward their own parents.

Hope of reforming the parents is not high. Miss Young reported that casework had not produced satisfactory results in any of the cases of severe child abuse that she investigated. An official of the Pennsylvania Society to Protect Children from Cruelty has said: "I know of no case of classical child batter-

Judge Dismisses NAACP Action On Segregation

BATON ROUGE (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West took under study Friday a motion to dismiss a Negro lawsuit trying to halt all public school desegregation. He said suit was not valid.

National Association for Advancement of Colored People attorneys filed the suit Feb. 17, on behalf of some Negro children in St. Charles Parish.

The attorneys described the suit, attempting to block distribution of state school funds to parish school boards with segregated schools, as an effort to knock out segregation in one blow.

Thomas McFerrin, special counsel in the state attorney general's office, representing the defendant State Board of Education, argued that the state formula for distribution of state funds does not take into consideration. He said the state board has no control over locally elected boards.

Judge West said state law prohibits the state board from interfering with individual school systems.

To issue an order sought by the Negro suit, he said, would cause immediate school closings.

Also, the judge said he didn't believe the state board was the proper defendant.

New Peace Corps Low

When Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the Kennedy brothers, was compelled to "knuckle under" to Negro Congressman Adam Clayton Powell in the handling of anti-poverty funds in Powell's Harlem district, it must have been hard on him. In fact, Senator George Murphy, R., Calif., a former movie actor, says Shriver's head is bound to be doubly uneasy from wearing two crowns and that he should take a rest.

Murphy offered that surmise after hearing that Shriver, head of both "peace" and "poverty" as exemplified by the Peace Corps and the anti-poverty setup, had been out on the West Coast drumming up recruits for the Peace Corps from among members of the University of California Free Speech Movement.

Dr. Max Rafferty, California's superintendent of public education and a member of the board of regents of the chaos-ridden University of California, said those behind demonstrations at the Berkeley campus "are not legitimate, genuine students at all." He stated that "many of them are what you might call fugitives, from Eastern and Midwestern colleges and universities, who have been in trouble before. Now they are at Berkeley to cause trouble."

Continuing, he said: "An institution of higher learning exists to pursue the truth and to develop in its students a respect for logic and for facts. It does not exist to recruit for picket lines nor to manhandle policemen. Nor is it a university designed to serve as an ornithological sanctuary for various odd birds."

The so-called Free Speech Movement is the one that paralyzed the California campus with a disobedience strike and drove President Charles Kerr to offer his resignation. It was found to include 32 demonstrators with direct or indirect connections with 11 communist or near-communist fronts.

In a speech to 1,500 students recently, Shriver said the initials of the radical group — F.S.M. — also stood for the Peace Corps—

a Free Service Movement. He complimented his listeners, saying:

"It is clear that you are unreasonable men, restless, questioning, challenging, taking nothing for granted. I agree with you. We ask you to join in the politics of service."

We may well wonder if this is also a part of the plan of the Kennedy clan to push the candidacy of Robert Kennedy for the presidential nomination. The Kennedy brothers, Senators Robert of New York and Edward of Massachusetts, have been pushing farther to the left than President Johnson, which means they want the support of the so-called liberal extremists.

Robert Kennedy, during the time he was attorney general, let it be known in a speech that he was interested in becoming the leader of a worldwide "youth revolt."

Apparently Shriver is pursuing the same line. If he wants to enlist riff-raff, agitators and violators of law and order and discipline in the Peace Corps he might well be setting up an organization which could be merged into a "youth revolt" and which could be placed under the direction of Robert Kennedy if President Johnson leaves Shriver in charge of the Peace Corps.

There is not much doubt that President Johnson passed down the order which gave Powell, instead of Shriver, authority to supervise "poverty" funds in the Harlem district.

Since the members of the Kennedy clan are working, tooth and toenail — although still undercover — in an effort to reduce Johnson's political power, it seems likely that an open break may come soon and that Shriver's service in the administration is likely, now, to be short-lived.

This probably would be a good thing. If Shriver is using the Peace Corps for the purpose of building up a tremendous force of those interested in insurrection, it is time for President Johnson to take a good look-see.

District Juggling

It is impossible to know what the United States Supreme Court had in mind when it took away from the states their right to fix their own congressional districts. If it had deliberately planned the reshuffling so that Democrats could jerrymander the boundaries of the new districts in such a way that the chances of the Republicans for election or re-election would be diminished, it could not have done a more effective job.

Not only were the rights of the states usurped by federal authority but the cause of so-called "liberals," which the Supreme Court has generally supported, was greatly enhanced.

Also, there is the danger that the Supreme Court will further wreck the Constitution of the United States by declaring that Senators must be elected on the basis of population, with big states having more United States Senators than the smaller ones, whereas now every state has two Senators. As things stand, some 10 states now virtually control the whole 50 states, and the situation would be far worse if the one way in which the smaller states have equality were to be taken away.

Republicans are charging that Democratic governors and legislatures in states which are under court orders to remap their congressional districts, and also in some states which are not under court orders but have redistricting plans anyhow, are gerrymandering the districts so that Democrats will have control.

This district shifting is reminiscent of an act which the late Governor and Senator Huey P. Long was said to have induced the state legislature to adopt. It was charged at that time that Long led the legislature to eliminate one judicial district in which the judge had opposed Long. This left the judge without a seat and placed most of his former constituent outside his former district. Later, a relative of the displaced judge was said to have assassinated Long and himself was shot to death by Long's guards.

In states under court orders, 13 are in Democratic hands, only three in Republican and six are divided.

Texas and Indiana are cited by Republicans as two states in which Democrats are making long-term plans to shut the Republicans out of Congress.

In Indiana the congressional delegation is now six Democrats and five Republicans, a gain of two for the Democrats in 1964. The congressional redistricting plan drawn by the Democratic legislature makes things snug for the Democrats in districts they now hold. The reshuffling was so skillful that all of the Republican Congressmen will have difficulty in winning again. Two of them have been placed in a single district, so that one must be eliminated. It is stated that even former Republican House Leader Charles A. Halleck may have trouble in gaining re-election.

In Texas, where Republicans once had hope of electing three or four Congressmen, but elected none in 1964, the state is being so cleverly remapped that it is claimed the Republicans have slight chance of electing even one Republican in the near future.

So, we find the Supreme Court not only has played a hand in juggling the congressional districts, which, under the Constitution, were fixed by the states, but also is having a part in juggling the Congressmen themselves.

ROBERT ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Freeman Sharply Rebuffed

Too Noisy On Pollution Battle

AGRICULTURE Secretary Orville Freeman is in the doghouse in a big way.

The one-time Minnesota governor has painfully learned President Johnson does not take lightly having members of his Cabinet engage in free-wheeling on legislation he favors. Freeman did — and the President cracked down bluntly and forcefully.

In a personally conveyed pre-emptory order, the President directed Freeman to get out and stay out of the stormy backstage wrangle that has developed between the Senate and House over a key provision of one of the President's pet measures—water pollution control.

In a way Freeman's sharp cuffing is a case of "locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen."

HE PLAYED a leading role in causing this ruckus.

Crux of the hassle is the wide variance between the House and Senate over who will set the standards and regulations determining the quality and use of water.

Under the Senate bill, this crucial authority is vested in the Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare. The House measure gives the major voice to state and local authorities.

The President strongly favors the Senate version. Freeman the House's — until abruptly silenced by the President.

In the meanwhile, the fat's in the fire due to Freeman's vigorous opposition.

Next round in the behind-the-scenes battle over the conflicting bills will take place in the closed-door deliberations of the conference committees of the House and Senate. The outcome is a toss-up.

The President is turning on the heat to get his way. But while Freeman has been sternly put out of action, the forces and interests he championed — state, local, industrial and agricultural — are busily pulling every wire they can on Capitol Hill.

THE INSIDE DETAILS — The President got wind of Secretary Freeman's free-wheeling opposition through Representative John Dingell, D-Mich., member of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Dingell turned over to the President a copy of a Freeman memorandum being circulated by Representative Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the Agriculture Department's budget. Dingell also produced Freeman's private testimony before Whitten's committee.

In both his memorandum and testimony, Freeman clobbered the President's plan to give the HEW Secretary control over "establishing and promulgating standards of water quality."

From Freeman's comments, there is a strong implication he resented HEW being favored over Agriculture.

"This bill appears to overlook or minimize," declared Freeman in his private memorandum, "the appropriate role of this department in the field of water quality control. The Department of Agriculture represents the prime users of water. The farm, forest and related industrial segments of the nation look to the Department of Agriculture for representation and leadership concerning the soil, water and associated resources upon which they are dependent."

"In spite of these facts, the bill would give broad authority to the Secretary of HEW to curtail, control or regulate use of land, water and other resources, and services for which this Department is responsible. This department questions whether it is appropriate or effective to authorize one department participating in the water resources field to exercise a controlling role in relation to authorized activities of other departments."

In Freeman's closed-door testimony before Whitten's committee, he admitted having a major hand in scuttling the President's control proposal as passed by the Senate.

"Last week I was very much disturbed to learn about the anti-pollution bill as passed by the Senate," said Whitten. "What disturbed me was the fact that this measure, turning complete control of all the waters in the U. S. over to the Secretary of HEW, had been adopted by the Senate wholly without consideration of the views of the Department of Agriculture."

"I called the undersecretary of agriculture. He got busy, and I understand that the House Public Lands Committee, acting at the request of the department, eliminated this control." "That is correct," affirmed Freeman.

THE CRACKDOWN — President Johnson hit the ceiling.

Freeman was speedily summoned to the White House, and bluntly told to pipe down.

He hasn't said a word or lifted a finger on this issue since.

Indicative of the importance of this legislation is the following significant statement in the Report of the House Public Works Committee:

"No more important single problem faces the country today than the problem of 'good water.' Water is our greatest single natural resource. The issue of pure water must be settled now for the benefit not only of this generation but for untold generations to come. The need for good quality water for all of our nation's uses — public and private — is a paramount one."

Except for the widely differing control provisions, the House and Senate bills are generally similar.

Both would establish a Federal Water Pollution Control Administration within HEW. They also would create a new assistant HEW secretary and an administrator to enforce the new legislation. The House measure increases from $100 million to $150 million the federal government's contribution to states and local agencies to combat pollution.

Administration insiders have been saying for some time that Freeman will be replaced as Agriculture chief in the fall after Congress has concluded — and presumably has voted on the President's controversial farm measure, of which Freeman is the principal author.

On the other hand, friends of the Minnesota man have been crediting him with wanted to quit Cabinet for several years. They indicate Freeman wants to get into the diplomatic service as a permanent career.

At one time he was eager to be named Ambassador to Mexico. But nothing came of it.

American Campus Doorway To Reds

FOR THE FIRST time since the mid-1930s, some members of student and faculty bodies at American colleges and universities are making an overt Communist-line assault on public policy. The names of the groups leading the agitation have changed — and so have the methods. What is most disturbing is that the effects of this assault are being frighteningly successful.

The student riots at Berkeley, abetted by faculty members of doubtful motivation, are being repeated elsewhere. At Columbia University, for example, college officials are fearfully seeking to stem a tide that can be stopped only by drastic measures. At no point are university authorities really facing up to the fact that some of the so-called demonstrations, the faculty sit-ins, and other signs of academic anarchy, are the product of careful planning by Communist and Castroite activities.

The Vietnamese war has been the excuse of the extreme leftist agitation. But the students who brandish the picket posters fail to realize that the calls for "withdrawal" — for "pacifist" reasons — are accompanied by the defense of the Communists now visiting their depredations on the Vietnamese people. "Pacifism" is hardly the issue anymore. We are seeing an open support of Communism and Communist terror by trained subverters prostituting the cause of peace.

I HAVE SAID that the faculty is, in many instances, urging the student body — or at least finding excuses for it — in these attacks on academic order. This hardly speaks well for those entrusted with the moulding of youthful minds — and it explains why a college education these days is welded to complete brainwashing.

Seven hundred professors have banded together to weaken President Johnson's hands in a crisis that may determine the American future. Every one of their manifestoes and full-page advertisements plays right into the hands of the Red propaganda machine.

The riots and faculty teach-ins focus attention on the misinformed and misinforming antics of a coalition of the unwashed and the respectable and divert us from facing the facts of the great new attack on American — and free world — security and survival. Few who attend the demonstrations have any real concern over freedom or justice. But the rest of the American people have a right to know, to be informed, and not to be led down the primrose path of false prophecies.

I COULD FILL this space for the next few weeks by simply delving into the systematic undermining of Latin American, Asian, and African governments by Communists and their sympathizers. I could spend more weeks in describing an equally systematic effort to destroy the fabric of American society and to turn our universities into spawning grounds for Castroite and Communist revolution.

The foreign peril is more dramatic, though not more dangerous. Any correspondent in Washington who wishes can learn the contents of intelligence reports on the crumbling state of Latin America. Brazil, an excellent field of battle for guerrillas, is now being subjected to hit-and-run attacks on police and military posts. In one raid alone, some 500 guerrillas seized an entire arsenal. The attackers were wearing stolen Brazilian army uniforms. In the universities, Communist — led students are on the march.

In Argentina, a coalition of Communists and Peronists were able to poll 35 per cent of the vote in congressional elections and won 35 seats. Leftist unions, moreover, are now "appropriating" industries which refuse to meet their demands. Intelligence sources believe that Bolivia may go Communist within 30 days. The catalogue could continue indefinitely.

THE SIMPLE FACT is that Castro — Communist forces are on the move from Panama to Argentina in Latin America. At a time like this, the American people and their government should be giving sober thought to the problems created by this all-out war against the Western hemisphere being conducted by the Moscow — Peking — Havana axis. The President should not be compelled at a time of crisis to spend time defending his flanks at home or to worry about his political skin.

There can be no proper American policy as long as the President and his Administration must think not in terms of what is good for America — but what a number of politically hopped-up professors and students want. The issues are clear — so clear that even Walter Lippmann has begun to see them. This is no time to entrust the future to college boys not quite certain whether they want to remake the world in the image of Lenin or to go on a Saturday night bender.

SYLVIA PORTER

Mighty Increase In National Debt

WHEN TREASURY Secretary Fowler treks to Capitol Hill soon to ask Congress to raise the legal ceiling on the public debt to an all-time peak, you well might wonder where our national debt is heading, whether we can or ever will reduce it, what it costs to carry it, etc. To clarify the picture on this eve of the annual debt ceiling rite, here's a simple Q. & A.

Q: How big is the national debt?

A: In absolute dollar terms it's a record of more than $316 billion. This reflects the fact that the federal government has run budget deficits in 29 of the past 35 years and the Treasury has had to borrow money to cover the difference between the government's fiscal intake and outflow. In 1931, when the red ink era began, the national debt was a mere $16.8 billion.

But, measured against the size of our economy, the debt has shrunk substantially in recent years. Today, our public debt amounts to less than 50 per cent of our Gross National Product (total output of goods and services). In contrast, in 1945 it was 133 per cent of GNP and in 1950 it was still 98 per cent of GNP.

THIS WAY OF measuring the national debt burden is entirely valid. To put it in personal terms, if you're arming $10,000, you could be crushed by a $13,000 debt, but you could manage a $4,800 debt — particularly if your earnings are moving steadily higher.

Q: Where is the debt heading?

A: Up and up for the foreseeable future. There's not even a thought of balancing the budget in the next few years. The estimate is the debt will be around $322.5 billion a year from June 30.

Q: What does it cost us to carry this $316 billion debt?

A: This fiscal year $11.3 billion of our tax money is going just to pay interest on the debt, by far the largest single item in the federal budget outside of national defense. In the year to begin July 1, the estimate for debt interest is $11.6 billion — and this could turn out low, if the level of interest rates rises and the Treasury has to pay higher rates when it borrows. It's an undeniably huge burden on all taxpayers.

Q: CAN OR WILL we ever reduce this debt?

A: Of course, we can reduce it — but only when our economy produces a budget surplus which we are willing to apply to debt reduction, and there's no prospect of a budget surplus for a long time.

Even against continuing budget deficits, the overwhelming support is for more tax cuts — the President has just asked Congress for a $4 billion reduction in excise taxes to be spread over the next five years — and for higher federal government spending.

Q: How is the new debt being financed?

A: This is one of the most reassuring and least understood aspects of the whole debt picture today. The fundamental point is that all the increase in our national debt in the past few years has gone into the hands of non-bank investors. This is the least inflationary way of financing budget deficits. Commercial banks — which could use the Treasury's IOUs as a means of adding to the money supply and thus could spur inflation — actually own $4 billion less of U.S. government securities than at the end of 1961.

Q: IS OUR rising debt undermining our dollar's value?

A: As long as the budget deficits are being financed outside the banking system, they are not fueling inflation.

As long as we make vigorous progress on wiping out the red ink in our international accounts (balance of payments), our rising national debt will not weaken foreign confidence in the U.S. dollar.

As long as our economy continues in a strong upturn, we can carry the debt interest burden with reasonable ease.

Latin Wounded Collected, Taken For Treatment

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Volunteers working with Red Cross teams made repeated mercy trips into battle-wrecked downtown Santo Domingo Friday, despite the sound of shots in the distance.

The wounded were placed in Red Cross ambulances and trucks and rushed to the nearest hospitals.

Civilians in the former rebel sector where most of the rescue work was concentrated were sullen and refused to talk with reporters.

One woman gave American newsmen the level palm against her throat gesture and issued a tirade against "Americans."

The youngsters were more cooperative. They pointed out bodies in the rubble. Ambulances, however, were giving priority to the wounded.

Most of the dead appeared to have been burned or buried in the northern sector as a preventive against disease.

Three bodies were found in one patio. They included that of a uniformed policeman and two rebels. All appeared under 20.

The two had been taken prisoner by the policeman Thursday night but were surprised by junta soldiers who ambushed the trio in the courtyard.

The junta appeared firmly in control of the area from Radio Santo Domingo to the west, but there was rebel strength evident from Duarte Avenue east to the Ozama River.

Rebel jeep patrols met ambulances as they neared the downtown area and guided them to bodies and wounded. All civilians were being searched for weapons as they crossed the corridor.

Joseph Kennedy Stricken Lightly

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (UPI)—Ailing Joseph P. Kennedy, 76-year-old father of the late President, suffered a "slight indisposition" Friday.

Though his niece, Miss Ann Gargan, sped 110 miles over the highway with a police escort to be at his bedside, a source close to the family said there was no cause for alarm.

Supreme Court To Get Records On Liquor Price

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Records in a suit aimed at knocking out Louisiana's controversial liquor price-fixing law were sent to the Supreme Court Friday.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board is appealing Dist. Judge Jess Johnson's ruling that the law is unconstitutional. But a Supreme Court spokesman said the appeal has not been placed on the docket because it has not received the record from East Baton Rouge Parish.

East Baton Rouge Chief Deputy Clerk Perry Johnson Jr. said the records in the case of Larry & Katz vs. The State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board were completed and dispatched Friday.

Meanwhile, Rep. Charles Smith of New Orleans tried unsuccessfully to push a resolution through the legislature which would suspend the law until the Supreme Court acts.

The resolution was killed in a House committee and Smith lost a floor right to over-ride the committee.

The law, which sent liquor prices up some 20 per cent in stores that have been selling liquor at a discount, was passed during the 1964 regular session.

Bogalusa Mayor Deplores Beating Of Photographer

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—Mayor Jesse Cutrer deplored Friday the beating of a newspaper photographer by a group of whites. He said newsmen are welcome to cover racial events in Bogalusa.

The mayor said the city's two municipal parks would remain closed indefinitely in an effort to avoid racial clashes.

Meanwhile, Negro leaders announced that James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, will address a rally here Sunday.

Terry Friedman, a New Orleans Times-Picayune photographer, was attacked Thursday when he went to one of the parks to cover a scheduled integration attempt by a group of Negroes. The attempt did not take place.

Friedman was beaten, knocked down and kicked by a group of whites. His cameras and equipment, valued at $2,000, were tossed in a nearby creek and his car damaged.

"I am very sorry that a newsmen's camera was damaged yesterday and I regret that the photographer was harassed," Cutrer said in a statement. "The members of the news media are welcome in Bogalusa and have been fair in the coverage of the news."

"The official point of view is that the members of the news media of all categories have the right, privilege and duty to cover the news for the benefit of all."

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—An official of the New Orleans Area Citizens' Council said Friday a massive protest of the federal voting rights bill is being planned for Washington in July.

George Singelmann said, "We intend to get thousands of clean-shaven white men and women in Washington to express our feelings about the voting rights bill and other federal legislation."

He said the protest march would probably be staged the weekend after July 4. Plans about transportation and the demonstration are being ironed out now, Singelmann said.

He said at least 500 persons from the New Orleans area would travel by train to the nation's capital for the demonstration.

Dominican Crisis Tests OAS Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States is at a crossroads in its efforts to re-establish peace — and recover its own prestige — in the chaotic situation in the Dominican Republic.

Because the United States has backed strongly the OAS role in the situation, history's appraisal of Johnson administration's policy in the Dominican crisis may depend largely on the new effort of the OAS to recoup its position.

As things stand now, the OAS — a regional organization of the American republics designed to meet just such problems — appears to have been on the outside looking in when a United Nations group worked out a temporary cease-fire arrangement to become effective today.

Earlier in the month-old struggle, the OAS worked out a truce that was supposed to be permanent. But except for its secretary-general, Jose A. Mora, the OAS did not stay on the scene to see it was carried out the cease-fire deteriorated into ineffectiveness.

At the very time the U.N. mission was working on its cease-fire plan, an OAS mission left the Dominican Republic to return to Washington to give a discouraging report on its activities.

Now Mora, whose authority and powers have been restricted — at times almost unmercifully — by the OAS itself, has the broadest authority ever given to a man in his job.

On one occasion a few years ago, Mora was berated publicly at an OAS council session by the Guatemalan delegate merely because he had given a noncommittal reply, acknowledging receipt of a letter from the British ambassador. The OAS council did nothing to rebuke the critic, nor to reassert Mora's authority.

Mora now has been charged by the OAS with these unprecedented political tasks in the Dominican Republic:

—To order a cease-fire in accordance with the Act of Santo Domingo, which was the agree-

Tunisia's President Won't Condemn U.S.

TUNIS (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia formally rejected anti-Americanism sweeping the Middle East and warned Friday that his withdrawal from the Arab League might follow.

Bourguiba thus seems to have given up Arab ties in favor of increased cooperation with the West and particularly the United States amidst indications of increased American aid.

The strong, dominating personality of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic was the main reason for Bourguiba's position, outlined in a major policy speech before officials of the ruling Socialist Destour party.

The speech followed an earlier feud with most Middle East countries over Bourguiba's proposal to negotiate with Israel rather than fight the Jewish state.

Time and again attacking Nasser during his 2½-hour speech, Bourguiba made it clear he follows an independent policy.

"These gentlemen in the Middle East," he said, referring to Nasser and his allies, "have formed a habit of considering themselves as tutors of the Arabs. They think they can uproot all regimes which refuse to be subjugated."

"But this is not the case of Tunisia, where the government is solid. If they want to join the Soviet camp, it is their business. But we will not accept their efforts to force us to work against Americans in the name of solidarity with Nasser."

Up to now, American aid to Tunisia has averaged $100 per every man woman and child — the highest per capita aid on the African continent. The United States recently pledged massive backing to the new Tunisian four-year development plan.

Annual Rodeo Slated For July In West Monroe

This year's performances of the R.C.A. approved rodeo have been scheduled for July 21-24 at 8 p.m. each day in the West Monroe Rodeo Arena.

Officials of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club and the West Monroe Riding Club, co-sponsors for the event, made the announcement of plans on Friday. Shrine president is Leslie Hamm and Bobby Albritton is top officer of the riding club.

The entire program will be announced in the near future, Albritton said, after all the contracts are signed.

"The response has been wonderful" to the advance sales in advertisement by the Shrine Club, Hamm said.

He explained that all proceeds from the event will go to the Crippled Children's Fund in this area.

ment under which the previous OAS peace mission arranged a cease-fire;

—To offer his good offices to the contending factions to establish a climate that will permit the functioning of democratic institutions;

—To coordinate OAS activities with those of the United Nations.

For the United Nations to take the dominating role in the Dominican crisis would mean trouble for the United States, which has long considered the OAS a regional organization which should exhaust its resources in tackling regional problems before they are taken to the United Nations.

Of one thing Latin-American diplomats are confident: Mora is a conscientious man whose Uruguayan nationality will not influence his actions in the truce that was supposed to be permanent. Uruguay is one of the OAS nations trying to bypass the OAS and put the whole business in the United Nations.

U.S. involvement in success or failure of the OAS is accentuated by Washington's dispatch of the Marines without consulting the OAS.

Latin Americans like to recall that the late President John F. Kennedy found opportunity to consult with them before acting in the Cuban missile crisis in October 1962.

In addition to the criticisms voiced in some quarters over neutrality or partiality of U.S. military forces on the scene and the sending in of the Marines, still another controversy has arisen. It is whether the Washington government, before and after the outbreak of the Dominican trouble, acted wisely or unwisely in its contacts with the contending forces.

There seems little reason to doubt that Washington was caught by surprise by the developments there. The U.S. ambassador, W. Tapley Bennett Jr., had been called to Washington for consultation. When the trouble flared on April 24 he was on a visit to relatives in Georgia.

The assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, Jack H. Vaughn, was in Cuernavaca, Mexico, attending a conference of Latin American intellectuals.

West Germany Will Recognize European Reds

BONN, Germany (AP) — Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder said Friday night that West Germany could open diplomatic relations with nations in Communist eastern Europe.

Until now the West German government has faithfully followed the "Hallstein Doctrine," under which it maintains formal diplomatic ties with no Communist-ruled country except the Soviet Union.

In a program prepared for television, he told an interviewer:

"So far as diplomatic relations are concerned, we could establish them in the Communist area unhindered by any theoretical ideas, just as we did with the Soviet Union. But today we must fear that the Soviet Zone (the East German Communist government) would use this to argue an alleged change in our basic position, and thus advertise itself."

"That is the danger, and we must watch it and act carefully."

All the Communist countries recognize the East German government. This has been given in the past as one of the reasons for the West German diplomatic boycott of them.

In reply to a question, Schroeder acknowledged that he has a new policy toward the east European Communist states. In the past three years, trade missions have been exchanged with Poland, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. Negotiations are under way with Czechoslovakia.

Cows Must Learn To Speak Spanish

LONDON (AP) — Farmer Raymond Edwards is teaching his sheep Spanish to help Britain's drive for exports. The Ministry of Agriculture thinks he's overzealous, but he doesn't.

"It may sound a bit crazy," said Edwards of Hythe in County Kent, "but if there's a language problem with animals, we farmers had better do something about it."

Export-minded Edwards read that British animals exported to foreign countries were having trouble understanding the commands given to them by foreign farmers who bought them.

So, armed with an English-Spanish dictionary, Edwards began getting up a little earlier last week, going out among his sheep and shouting Spanish commands at them.

"The flock's picking it up pretty quickly," said the 50-year-old farmer. "Instead of shouting at them in English, I'm getting them used to Spanish."

Told of the farmer's efforts, an Agriculture Ministry spokesman said: "It is quite true that there is some language problem with animals although it's not all that serious and there's no need to go to extremes."

The spokesman said the language problem had been mentioned in a ministry form letter a couple of weeks ago.

"The problem mostly applies to horses and dogs," said the ministry man. "They understand commands much easier than sheep or cows. Mr. Edwards is showing commendable zeal, but he may be overdoing it."

Frank Howard wants all his friends to know he's back in business.

Security Council Not Censoring U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council turned down Friday a Soviet demand for condemnation of the United States and withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Dominican Republic.

The 11-nation council got a U.S. plea that it cooperate with the Organization of American States to end the civil war between the Dominican junta and rebels.

The council received also a Uruguayan proposal that, without mentioning the United States, would have the council call "all states to abstain from giving direct or indirect assistance or military aid of any sort to the factions in conflict."

In the midst of its debate, the council got word that junta and rebel troops were still fighting in northern Santo Domingo as they approached the noon deadline for a 24-hour humanitarian truce. The vote on the Soviet resolution quickly followed.

Only the Soviet Union voted for a provision in its resolution condemning "the armed intervention by the United States in the domestic affairs of the Dominican Republic" as a U.N. charter violation.

But Jordan joined the Soviet Union in voting for another provision demanding the immediate withdrawal of the armed forces of the United States from Dominican territory.

The vote on condemnation was one for, six against and four abstaining. The vote on withdrawal was two for, six against and three abstaining.

The Ivory Coast, Malaysia and France abstained on withdrawal. Those three plus Jordan abstained on condemnation.

The United States, Britain, the Netherlands, Bolivia, Uruguay and Nationalist China voted against both provisions.

Council President Radhakrishna Ramani of Malaysia announced that the OAS passed a resolution Thursday night in Washington asking its secretary-general, Jose A. Mora, to work for peace and democracy in the Dominican Republic and to coordinate his efforts with U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant.

Thant told the council the Dominican factions had agreed last night with his representative, Jose Antonio Mayobre, to suspend hostilities for 24 hours starting at noon Friday so that the Red Cross could pick up dead and wounded.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson said he hoped that during the 24-hour truce, "it will prove possible to re-establish conditions ensuring against further hostilities and leading to a strict observance of the cease-fire originally worked out by the OAS. He then introduced a resolution asking the council to direct Thant's representative to coordinate with the secretary-general of the OAS, "in the light of the new OAS resolution, in carrying out the reporting duties the council gave him a week ago.

It noted also the humanitarian truce "with satisfaction," called for "observance of a strict cessation of hostilities," and asked the OAS "to intensify its efforts to establish the basis for the functioning of democratic institutions in the Dominican Republic."

Twenty-one-year-old Centenary College senior Linda Karen Graves will give up her crown of Miss Louisiana-Universet to-night when the state's new entry in the Miss USA-Miss Universe Pageant is chosen at Shreveport's Civic Theater.

The new titleholder will be chosen from a bevy of more than 20 beauty queens by a panel of judges composed of Mrs. Dixie Ware Monroe; Mrs. June Dyson, dean of women at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston; Lt. Col. Eugene A. Kelly, Public Relations Officer, Barksdale Air Force Bossier City; L. Calhoun Allen, Shreveport's Commissioner of Public Utilities, and Gary McKinnon, chairman of the Shreveport-Bossier City Convention and Tourist Bureau.

Mrs. Velma Reid, entries chairman and official chaperone for Miss Louisiana-Universet, said that young women from all over the state will be participating in the pageant activities which begin at 8:30 a.m. The round of scheduled activities include press conferences, a luncheon, rehearsals, interviews with the judges and the crowning ceremonies after the judging which begins at 8 p.m. on the theater stage. Participants will appear in both bathing suits and evening gowns.

The new queen will become the state's official delegate to the Miss USA pageant to be staged in Miami Beach, Fla., a national television audience on June 4. In addition to the week's stay in Miami Beach, Miss Louisiana-Universet will receive a host of other gifts and prizes.

Visiting queens at the Shreveport pageant will be Arkansas' Miss Hospitality, Jeri Haynie of El Dorado; Miss Shreveport, Linda Ferguson; Miss Holiday in Dixie, Sherry Lynn Boucher of Spring Hill; Caddo Home Bureau Queen, Cherry McDonald of Ida, La.; and Peach Queen, Lynn Baughman of Ruston.

Soap Producers Will Stop Using Pollution Agent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The soap and detergent industry told Congress Friday that production of the type of detergents that have foamed up streams and rivers will end by July 1.

Industry spokesmen, including representatives of two large soap companies, gave the assurances in testimony prepared for a Senate Public Works subcommittee on water pollution.

They noted that the change-over from "hard" detergents to ones that decompose like other wastes was accomplished voluntarily.

The industry assurances were greeted with some skepticism. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said there is "nothing to guarantee" that the new detergents will "degrade" rapidly enough to protect the public interest.

Nelson renewed his request that Congress enact a bill which he is sponsoring to provide for the establishment of federal standards for detergents.

Klan Sheds Cloak In North Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan, silent and almost unnoticed in North Carolina in recent years, has shed its cloak of secrecy in a resurgent drive for money and members.

Robed klansmen, escorted by steel-helmeted security guards, have paraded in recent weeks through the downtown sections of many North Carolina towns.

More Klan rallies and demonstrations are scheduled during the next six weeks, including the first KKK wedding in the state since 1926 and a street walk in the capital city of Raleigh. A street march is planned today through Farmville, a community 55 miles east of Raleigh.

Gov. Dan Moore's office said he had no statement on the Klan resurgence. However, the revival of the Klan in North Carolina has come as a surprise to some state leaders. North Carolina was among the first of the southern states to integrate hotels and restaurants. School desegregation has moved smoothly.

Church and business leaders have launched a counter-attack against the Klan.

The executive board of the North Carolina Council of Churches recently issued a statement calling the KKK a menace and "anti-American, anti-Christian."

The churchmen added, "we deplore the Klan's vicious and unscrupulous attacks on our Jewish, Catholic and Negro brethren. We must counteract the menacing influence of the Klan."

Ten ministers and nine businessmen from Dunn, site of a Klan rally last weekend, expressed "regret and shame that the Ku Klux Klan chose our town as a showplace to exhibit three men accused of murder and their defense attorney."

In an open letter to the people of Dunn, the ministers and busi-

Stock Market Takes Another Setback

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took another sharp setback Friday—its third this week—as the pace of trading slowed more than a million shares below the previous session.

Volume was 4.66 million shares, the lightest since April 7 when 4.44 million shares changed hands.

The Dow Jones industrial average lost 5.26 at 922.01.

The slackening of trading as prices softened was an encouraging technical sign for those who hope for higher prices, analysts said, because it showed there was no great rush to unload. They noted that weakness in prices was more a question of a drying-up of bids rather than heightened selling pressure.

The question among Wall Street analysts, however, was how far this present "correction" would run. It is already close to 20 points below the historic closing high made by the Dow industrials last week.

The market was slightly lower at the start and widened its losses as the session wore on. Declines of a point or 2 among some of the important key stocks accounted for the fairly steep declines in averages. The rest of the list beat a restrained and very unsensational retreat.

Motors were down fractionally most of the day but began to get some support in late trading. Ford and General Motors ended the session with minor losses but Chrysler and American Motors produced thin gains and Studebaker was unchanged.

Aluminums were depressed by a report that the Government was considering massive sales of aluminum from the stockpile. Alcoa lost 1 1/2, Aluminum Ltd. 1 1/2 and Reynolds Metals 1 1/2. A gently lower trend showed up among steels, rubbers, farm implements, nonferrous metals, chemicals, oils, airlines and tobacco.

Of 1,380 issues traded, 702 fell.

NEW YORK (AP)—Domestic cotton futures closed unchanged to 25 cents a bale lower Friday. Traders were on the sidelines for most of the session until shortly before the close when trading developed in nearby October and December contracts. Commission houses were on either side of the market.

Trading continued restricted as the market awaited word from Washington concerning new cotton legislation.

MONROE AND VICINITY — Partly cloudy today and Sunday with showers affecting 20 to 30 per cent of the area mainly in afternoons. Not much change in temperatures. High today 83 to 87. Low tonight 65 to 70. Winds five to 15 miles per hour.

Grain Futures Mostly Weaker; Wheat Firmer

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat maintained a little firmness most of the time in the grain futures market but other commodities fell under moderate selling pressure and became weak.

Corn and soybeans absorbed the heaviest selling and prices were down well over a cent a bushel in the early afternoon without showing more than a feeble tendency to rally. Brokers said, though, there appeared already to be a good volume of speculative short interest in those markets. A good deal of the weakness was ascribed to stop loss pressure.

All wheat contracts held small gains into the closing hour on listless transactions.

Soybeans finished 1 1/2 to 2 cents a bushel lower, July 22.77 1/2-76 3/4; wheat 3/4 to 1/2 higher, July 1.38 3/4-39; corn 3/4 to 1/2 lower, July 1.32 3/4-34; oats 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 67 1/2-68; soybean meal 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 1.17 1/2-1.18.

Gray Team Wins 'Bean Bowl' Game

With the thought of having to eat beans for supper facing them, the Gray squad bounced back to produce a score with one second remaining on the clock to defeat the Blue team, 19-13, and win the chicken supper in the first annual "Bean Bowl" at West Monroe Stadium Friday night.

The score came on a nine-yard bootleg pass from sophomore Danny Rhodes to right end Danny Reeves.

Todd Robertson set up the play when he intercepted an attempted screen pass from Blue quarterback Ronnie Wiggins on the Gray five-yard line with 29 seconds remaining to play.

Fullback Richard Ware punched out one yard before a five-yard penalty set the Gray team back to the nine. The score came on the next play, giving the Blue team the beans for supper. The Blue had been leading the 13-13 tied game by virtue of first downs, seven to five.

Coach Walter Brister, watching the game from the press box, pointed out that the large number of penalties was due to "mistakes from lack of experience," adding that several of the players had only three days practice after completing in track and baseball. "I was overall pleased with the entire group," the Rebel head mentor commented. "The boys showed overall good attitude and hustle. They are an easy group to coach." He added that the group "needs more time" to round into a solid football team.

The Blue team held a 6-0 lead at the end of the half, striking eight minutes deep into the first period when Wiggins made a sensational play, breaking loose from would-be tacklers in the backfield and rolling to his left to connect with end Randy Russell for a touchdown.

The Gray's first tally came with five minutes left in the third with Rhodes punching down to the Blue 12 and 31 yards out, and Ware taking the ball in from the five on a break through the middle. He added the PAT on a similar play for a 7-6 lead.

Early in the fourth Rhodes went over from two yards out for another Gray tally and a 13-6 lead.

Wiggins came back and directed his team down the field, going the last nine himself around right end into the end zone standing up. Randall Cloddy's plunge off right tackle added the extra point to tie the game up with 5:39 remaining. It was then that the Gray took advantage of breaks, backing the Blue up against its own goal line and grabbing off a pass to set up the winning touchdown.

Some of the players singled out by Brister for "their outstanding performances" were Wiggins, Richard Colvin, Ware, halfback Glynn Gallapay, Robertson, Raymond Reames and Russell.

Liston Feels Protected For Rematch With Clay

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Challenger Sonny Liston feels better about his Tuesday night title rematch with heavyweight champion Cassius Clay. He discovered Friday he's under state protection.

"Yeah," said Liston, who has been nicknamed the Bear by Clay, "up here in Maine, there used to be a bounty for huntin' bear. Now the bear is protected by the state."

"I know I'll have no trouble now," he said. The bout, postponed from last November by Clay's hernia operation and bounced from Boston by legal entanglements, is now set for the chummy confines of the Central Maine Youth Center.

Approximately 41900 seats have gone on sale and, while the $25 pasteboards are gone, there are still some available at the $50 and $100 price.

The arena has been scaled higher than had been set for Boston Garden, where the top price was $50.

Law Hurls Bucs Past Milwaukee To Snap String

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vern Law and the Pittsburgh Pirates ended long losing streaks Friday night by whipping the Milwaukee Braves 6-1.

Law had lost his first five starts of the season and the Pirates had dropped eight straight but Bill Mazeroski led a 10-hit attack which finally brought the victory. Mazeroski drove in three runs with a single, double and sacrifice fly.

Law, who had a 2.98 earned run average despite his 0-5 record, held the heavy hitting Braves to three hits and one run before being forced to retire after 5-13 innings because of a pulled groin muscle.

Al McBean preserved the victory by pitching shutout ball the rest of the way.

The Braves scored their only run in the fifth on Rico Carty's single, a walk and Frank Bolling's double, pulling into a 1-1 tie. The Pirates promptly moved ahead 2-1 in the sixth on two errors by Sandy Alomar and a double by Gene Freese.

The Pirates wrapped up the game with three runs in the seventh, Jerry Lynch driving in two with a pinch single, then added another in the ninth.

Attendance was only 2,679.

Colavito, the first man to face Radatz in the seventh inning, snapped a 5-5 tie with his seventh homer of the season. Davaillio, meanwhile, became the first player in the majors this season to drive in six runs. He collected a two-run double in the first inning, homered with one on to tie the score 5-5 in the fifth and singled home two more runs in the eighth inning.

Colavito's homer scored Fred Whitfield, who had doubled, and was one of six homers hit in the game. Besides Davaillio, Chuck Hinton and Al Luplow also homered for the Indians while Tony Conigliaro and Ed Bressoud connected for the Red Sox.

Conigliaro smashed his ninth home run in the second inning, and Bressoud followed with another homer off Indian starter Luis Tiant, tying the score 2-2. Hinton clouted his fourth homer in the fourth, but Boston came back in the fifth inning with three runs on five singles to go ahead 5-3. Davaillio then tied it in the fifth. Colavito put the Indians ahead to stay and Luplow hit a pinch-hit homer in a four-run eighth.

Eagles Sue City For Rights To Proposed New Stadium

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles sued the city Friday over exclusive professional football rights in the proposed new stadium. The action could scuttle the $25-million project.

Gymkhana Will Be Held Sunday By Local Club

Southside Safeway Parking Lot on Plum Street will be the scene of a sports car Gymkhana Sunday sponsored by Scuderia Washitaw.

Registration will begin at 1 p.m. with time trials starting promptly at 1:30.

This event has been designed as a preliminary for a three-way competition being held during the summer months between the local Scuderia Washitaw and the sports car clubs of Alexandria and Shreveport. All cars will undergo a technical inspection and will be required to have seat belts.

There will be two events in this gymkhana — one salom-type and one open auto-cross, both of which will test both the maneuverability of the vehicles and the ability of the driver. Trophies will be awarded at the conclusion of the trials.

The Eagles asked Common Pleas Court either to force the city and Mayor James Tate to honor an alleged 1963 agreement giving the National Football League team exclusive rights in the stadium, or injunct all action on the project and declare as invalid the public vote approving financing.

The suit claims that if the Eagles don't play in the stadium, the voter approval of the bond issue was "based upon widespread and public misrepresentation." It is alleged that the vote was based on tenancy by the Philadelphia National League baseball club and the Eagles defraying any cost to the taxpayers.

Tate declined immediate comment, but City Solicitor Edward G. Bauer Jr., described the suit as "utterly without merit."

Bauer said, "the (state) Supreme Court has ruled and reiterated that no agreement is binding upon the city unless it is formally executed with all prior requisites fulfilled, which, in this case, include formal approval by the mayor and city council."

Bauer said the city will file preliminary objections to the suit early next week.

Meanwhile, President Judge Joseph E. Gold fixed May 26 for a hearing in the equity action. Mayor Tate has directed that the Phillies be given an exclusive lease for use of the stadium scheduled for completion in South Philadelphia by the spring of 1967.

Two additional Democrats — Harrison Williams, N.J., and Quentin Burdick, N.D. — promptly added their signatures.

He has refused the same exclusivity to the Eagles on the grounds they use the stadium only seven games a year, and the field should be available for another team if one comes to town.

Jerry Wolman, owner of the Eagles, obviously seeks to prevent an American Football League team from sharing the facility. There have been strong reports that the AFL will invade the Philadelphia territory in 1966. At least nine groups have been reported courting a franchise in the younger league.

The Eagles' owner contends two professional football teams sharing the same field cannot economically exist in Philadelphia. He also claims that 20 of 21 professional football teams have exclusive rights in the stadiums in which they play.

Wolman has accused the mayor of depriving the Eagles of exclusivity in order to save the stadium for friends of Tate's who are seeking an AFL franchise. He has charged the mayor is trying to drive the Eagles out of Philadelphia.

Tate insists he has no ulterior motive in refusing the Eagles an exclusive lease. He says the stadium should not be tied up by one team for only seven days a year. He points out that the Phillies play more than 80 games.

Debate over the alleged lease with the city for exclusive rights has been raging the past few months in a wordy battle between Wolman and Tate.

The Eagles' owner has offered to take over the building of the stadium, or to guarantee against operating losses in exchange for exclusivity. He also has indicated he would build a dome over the stadium.

The Eagles now play at the University of Pennsylvania's 60,000 seat Franklin Field, where they pay via a donation at the end of the season and for maintenance to protect the university's free tax status.

Northeast Inks Two Additional Star Golfers

Northeast State has signed two more of Louisiana's top high school golfers — Richard Horecky of Church Point and Sparky Boyer of Denham Springs.

Northeast State Golf Coach Wallace Hargan earlier signed Wayne Peddy of West Monroe, state junior amateur champion.

Horecky tied for medalist honors in this year's state high school golf tournament, losing a sudden-death playoff for the medalist trophy. He shot rounds of 70 and 71 in the tournament for a total of 141.

Boyer was 11th in the state tourney. He tied for second in the first round with a 69, then shot a 78 on the second day for a total of 147.

Parish Wild Life Announce First Day Of Contest

The first period is May 28 — June 24; the second, June 25 — July 25; and the third, July 26 — August 29.

Jim Packer, chairman of the unit, said about 12 prizes will be given each month.

Two top prizes will be given each month for bream, bass and spec and two grand prizes will be awarded at the end of the contest in each of the three categories.

Fish caught in Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, and Texas will be eligible.

Before entering a fisherman must be a member of the Ouachita Wild Life Unit for at least four days before entering his catch.

The unit will hold its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Six-Under-Par

Boros Blasts To Four Stroke Lead In Open

MEMPHIS (AP) — Julius Boros, who was playing golf before most of the game's present names were born, struck a blow for old age Friday when he shot a six-under-par 64 for a 36 hole score of 130 and a four stroke lead in the $60,000 Memphis Open.

Boros, a 45-year-old who has been a pro 16 years, used his irons and his putter as if they were magic wands to score an eagle and two birdies back-to-back and take the lead after just 11 holes.

Playing the back nine first on the compact 6,466-yard Colonial Country Club course, Boros first shot into the lead on 18 when he eagled the par-five, 508-yard hole. Birdies on the next two holes put him out of reach.

Boros' tee shot on 18 left him about 250 yards short of the green, but he used a two iron to drop the ball within three feet of the pin, making the birdie putt easy.

As he moved to the front nine, the ageless veteran with the build of a circus weight-lifter birdied No. 1 with a 35-foot putt and dropped in an eight-footer on No. 2 to go nine under par.

George Archer, a 6-6 giant from San Francisco, and former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler were fair strokes off the pace in second place. Archer, who used an excellent chipping game, came in with a 68 and Littler shot a 66 for 36-hole scores of 134.

The first round leaders, Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and Bob McCallister of Corona, Calif., couldn't match their Thursday 65s but still finished strong enough to stay in contention.

Both shot one-over-par 71s to finish the second round with 36-hole scores of 136.

Jack Nicklaus, the tournament favorite, started the second round two strokes off the pace and turned in two eagles on the back nine, which he played first.

Nicklaus was so jubilant about the eagle on No. 16 he threw his putter about 25 feet in the air and almost was knocked off his feet as an enthusiastic member of his gallery of about 3,000 grabbed him and gave him a bear-hug.

On 16, Nicklaus was about 30 feet from the pin, but instead of shooting straight for it on the sloping green he shot in a semi-circle around the edge of the green and watched the ball roll slowly down toward the cup and drop in.

Nicklaus, Homero Blancas and Bruce Crampton finished with second round scores of 135. The Masters champ had a 63, Blancas a 69 and Crampton a 65 during second round play.

Bunched at 136 were R. H. Sikes, Johnny Pott and Miller Barber, each with rounds of 69-67; Bert Yancey with a pair of 68s; Dave Marr with a 67-69; and Rudolph and McCallister.

New Tires Banned By U.S. Auto Club

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The tire problem at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway took a new turn today when the U.S. Auto Club said Goodyear's new tires will be banned from the track.

"We're not permitting the new tires to be run," chief steward Harland Fengler said, "because the new tires were altered."

Homer, Single Lift Senators

Past Yanks, 5-4

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Kirkland's two-run homer and Don Blasingame's run-scoring single in the ninth inning lifted Washington to a 5-4 triumph over the New York Yankees Friday night.

Jim Bouton, who had limited the Senators to five hits until the ninth, started his own downfall by walking Woodie Held for the third time. Kirkland then slammed his fourth homer into the upper right field stands for a 4-4 tie.

One out later, Ken Hamlin lashed a liner to left field that bounced past Tom Tresh who slipped trying to field the ball. Hamlin wound up with a triple and after Pedro Ramos relieved Bouton and struck out Don Zimmer, Blasingame lined a single to center.

The Yankees had built a 4-2 lead with the help of two errors by shortstop Ed Brinkman and one by catcher Doug Camilli.

Hansgen Faces Busy Weekend

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts: Walt Hansgen will try to qualify at Indianapolis today for the Memorial Day 500, then flies to Long Island for Sunday's Vanderbilt Cup road race—an event that started the entire business of automobile racing.

First Vandy Cup was contested in 1904 over the peaceful country roads of Long Island with primitive motor monsters scaring the daylight out of local citizens and livestock as they roared by. Some of those roads still exist but they're jammed with private cars and organized racing is held on a modern 2.86 mile closed road - racing circuit. Jim Hall, Sebring winner, is the 1965 favorite.

The U.S. Golf Association, which once trailed the field in the amount of prize money put up for its events, has a $20,000 jackpot ready for the U.S. Women's Open at Atlantic City, July 14. It's the biggest purse the gals ever shot at anywhere. Men's Open is a $125,000 event this year.

The figger filberts over at National Football League headquarters have rated the all-time top 10 passers on the basis of career statistics with Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts on top. Sammy Baugh, ex-Washington, just makes No. 10.

Wonder what old Sam would have done if he could have been throwing to a set of today's superior pass-catchers? U.S. Open champ Ken Venturi admits he's concerned about his hands, which are numbed by cold, during his title defense at St. Louis next month.

If it's that cold in St. Louis at Open time it'll be a bigger upset than Venturi's victory in the simmering heat at Washington last year.

Soccer is a bit rough but the lads do manage to get along without a lot of heavy protective armor. Bob McKinlay of Britain's Nottingham Forest team now touring the U.S. hasn't missed a game in seven seasons.

U.S. soccer is growing. Many high schools are adding soccer and more than 400 colleges now field teams. Low cost a factor.

Boston fight promoter Sam Silverman has high hopes for young Ted Whitfield who boxes Gaspar Ortega at the Boston Garden Tuesday night. "He's a Billy Conn with a kayo punch," says Sam of the 142-pound Whitfield, "and the best prospect I've seen in 40 years."

The Whitfield - Ortega match will be a co-feature on New England screens set up for closed-circuit TV of the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston rematch at Lewiston, Maine. Want the winner of Liston-Clay? Toss a coin. It's better than trying to figure the angles.

The "new breed" of New York Mets baseball fans is just like the old breed that once roared for the old Brooklyn Dodgers. It's okay to knock Casey Stengel or rap any player as an outright bum but you'd better be able to prove you're a Met fan through and through.

Roberts Inks Agreement With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) Archie Roberts, star Columbia University quarterback, signed an agreement with the Cleveland Browns Friday that will help him fulfill his ambitions of becoming a doctor and playing professional football.

Art Modell, owner of the National Football League champions, said Roberts will be paid $28,000 for the next three years but will not play until 1967, after completing two years of medical school here.

He said the agreement, which he described as unique in professional football, was worked out "to assure the Browns of the future service of Roberts." It makes him the "first post-graduate red shirt" in professional football, he added.

Modell said the Browns will pay $7,000 annually for the next two years toward tuition and living expenses for the 21-year-old Roberts and his wife, Barbara, 20, who will enroll in the Western Reserve University Medical School this fall. Roberts will be paid $14,000 for the 1967 season, he added.

Roberts said he was pleased that the Browns "could find it possible to make an arrangement that will give me a chance to realize my life-long ambitions to become a doctor and to play professional football."

Roberts, whose home is in Holyoke, Mass., was drafted by the New York Jets of the American Football League but was passed by all clubs in the NFL draft.

"Several were interested in him," Modell said, "but were under the impression that he had chosen to pursue his medical career instead of play professional football. We would have picked him if we had not been afraid of wasting a selection."

He said Roberts' 1967 pact is not a no-cut contract and that he will have to prove his ability to remain with the Browns.

Modell said the money Roberts will receive from the Browns the next two years is not a gratuity.

"While he will not be playing in games for us in 1965 and 1966, he will practice with the club both seasons and will be doing other work for us," the Browns' owner explained.

"If nothing else, we may use him to throw passes for pass defense drills, relieving other quarterbacks of this duty. He also probably will do film analytical work and perform any other duties that Coach Blanton Collier may find for him."

Modell said he also plans to seek special permission from the NFL for Roberts to play in pre-season exhibition games this year and next.

Roberts, who hopes to specialize in surgery at medical school, holds virtually every Ivy League and Columbia University passing record. He had a career total of 313 completions in 539 passes for 59.1 per cent and exceeded 10 yards per completion.

He also handled the punting at Columbia and was a deft tackler and alert pass defender.

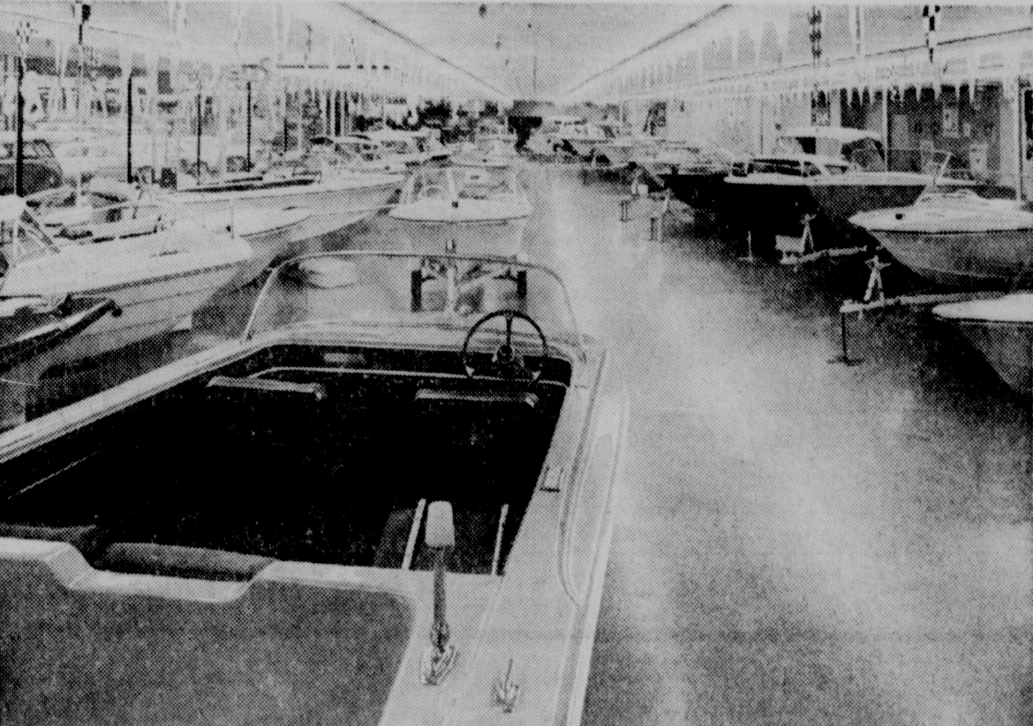

His 386 batting average with the Columbia baseball team this season labeled him a major league prospect.

Baylor Party
Courtesy To Donna Weaver

Miss Donna Weaver, bride-elect of Samuel Patterson Boyd, was honored recently with a miscellaneous shower held in Newhall Guest Lounge of Baylor University. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merce Britton Weaver of Monroe.

Miss Gina Coffman was hostess for the prenuptial party with Mary Ellen Barlow pouring punch and Margie O'Brien serving the cake.

The lace covered serving table centered with an arrangement of daisies, was overlaid with gold net and trimmed with gold satin bows.

A straw flower basket holding yellow daisies was placed on the gift table and suspended above it was a white watering can filled with yellow daisies. Nylon rain contributed to the effect of water.

Miss Weaver was wearing a white brocade double breasted dress with an orange, yellow and red smoke-ring scarf. Her hostess gave her a corsage of tropical roses.

Miss Coffman wore a tropic orange flair top dress accented with a long strand of cream pearls.

Guests were Margie O'Brien, Mary Ellen Barlow, Sue Ferguson, Gradene Williams, Shirley Mims, Susan Parry, Margaret Fuller, Jerry Touchstone.

Weekend Parties Honor
Zeta Tau Alpha Pledges

Pledges and active members of Zeta Tau Alpha fraternity assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Mapp on Saturday afternoon for a gala two day party. Swimming and water skiing were enjoyed by members and their dates from mid afternoon until supper time.

A patio-barbecue supper was served from picnic tables festively decorated with flowers and hurricane lamps in the fraternity colors of turquoise blue and gray.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of cleverly presented skits and songs honoring the pledge class. The girls in whose honor the entertainment was given were: Misses Mingyonne Alexander of Bastrop, Linda Fomby of Monroe, Susan Greeson of New Orleans, Barbara Ann Kootz of West Monroe, Brenda Oglesby of West Monroe, Laurie Ann Young of Slidell, Kay Risher of Patterson, and Billie Porter and Becky Parkerson both of Monroe.

A midnight snack supper was served by the following members of the alumnae group: Mrs. Harrell Lary, Mrs. Gordon Gates, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. John Kelso, Mrs. Barney Pate, Mrs. Jesse McDonald, Mrs. John McCarter, and Mrs. G. W. Cummins. A slumber party followed a late evening boat ride.

The entire group attended Parkview Baptist Church for Sunday morning worship. Members of Zeta Delta Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha at Northeast State College who participated in the entertainment were: Misses Lynda and Lynne Bryce, Monroe; Rachel Dillon, Shreveport; Joyce Ester, Shreveport; Marilyn Evans, Monroe; Mary Farley, Monroe; Linda Hailey, Shreveport; Jan Hillman, Metairie; Wanda Langley, Monroe; Diane McCain, Winnsboro; Derylin Morris, Monroe; Dorothy Parra, Lake Providence; Belva Polson, Monroe; Carol Puckett, Rayville; Elizabeth Stout, Baton Rouge; and Jean Traylor, Shreveport.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Cummins entertained the members of Zeta Delta pledge class and their dates at their camp on Garret Road with a luncheon on Sunday. Mrs. Cummins has served as Pledge advisor for this semester.

The luncheon was served buffet style to the members and Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Mapp, and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cummins. The luncheon tables were covered with red and white checked cloths and decorated with western motif arrangements. A leisurely afternoon spent in hammocks and lakeside chairs completed the weekend.

Hints From Heloise

Farm Wife Uses Nylon Net To Clean Chicken

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: I would like to tell you of one more use I have found for those little pieces of indispensable nylon net.

Being a farm wife, I raise and dress my own broilers. After the chicken is killed and the feathers picked off, I take a piece of your nylon net (kept especially for this purpose) and rub the chicken all over with this to remove that thin layer of yellow skin which sometimes takes so much time and scraping to get rid of.

I just put the chicken in a pan of water, or hold it under a faucet of running water, and scrub it with the net. . . like I would a "dirty youngin" in the bathtub" and the yellow skin comes off like magic.

When finished, wash the net out under hot water, take it outside and shake out the remaining particles. Hang up to dry, and it will be ready to use again.

Faithful Fanny

Dear Heloise: I save the shirt cardboard and plastic bags from the laundry, and when we take a trip I use them for my blouses.

Just fold the blouses on the cardboards in the same manner shirts are folded, put them in the plastic bags, and they will stay fresh and unwrinkled.

Amanda C.

Dear Heloise: My mother made the cutest "dining room" for our dog! His water dish and food dish were always being upset or pushed around . . . trying to get the last drop or last bite!

She got a heavy cardboard box, removed the top and cut out all of one side of the box except for about an inch along the bottom (so the dishes wouldn't slide out), then she covered it inside and out with adhesive backed plastic paper.

It looks nice in the dog's special corner of the kitchen and is so easy to keep clean. Isn't she smart!!!

ROAST CHICKEN? PIETARSAARI, Finland (UPI)—There wasn't a tiger in Konrad Hatt's tank — but there was a chicken under the hood. Hatt found the bird sitting on the warm motor when he checked to see why his truck have been making odd noises for the past few days. He said the chicken, which was reluctant to leave its comfortable perch, had probably been in the engine since it escaped from a load he carried a week ago.

RECEIVING GUESTS at the reception held Sunday in honor of Mrs. Marguerite Vincent were left to right, Mrs. W. D. Boatright, Mrs. C. A. Ulrich, Mrs.

Vincent, Mrs. Orrie Rust and Mrs. E. J. Upshaw. The reception was held in the auditorium of Sherrouse School where Mrs. Vincent has been principal.

Reception Compliments Mrs. Marguerite Vincent

Mrs. Marguerite Vincent, retiring this year after serving 35 years as principal of Sherrouse Elementary School, was complimented at a large reception held in the school auditorium Sunday, May 16, from 2 to 5 p.m. Hostesses were members of the Sherrouse Parent-Teacher Association.

Former Sherrouse students, parents, educators, business and professional people and many personal friends called to honor this outstanding educator who has been the only principal in the life of the school.

Greeting guests who arrived at the Sherrouse Street entrance were former students of 1930: Mrs. John Ethridge, Mrs. E. W. Miller, Jimmy McIlwaine and William Vincent, son of the honoree.

At the Blanks Street entrance were Mrs. Beale Eason and Mrs. W. W. Hathorn.

Guests registered at a glass topped wrought iron table in the hallway. Spring flowers were arranged in the base of the table where Mrs. L. G. Hunt, Mrs. E. W. Miller, Mrs. Tom Morgan and Mrs. M. Heidenreich alternated during the afternoon.

Flanking the doorway to the auditorium were tall topiary trees with tiny pink rosebuds tucked in the foliage.

The receiving line was composed of Mrs. W. D. Boatright, outgoing president of PTA, Mrs. C. A. Ulrich, incoming president, Mrs. Vincent who wore a muted pink silk dress trimmed in bands of embroidery, Mrs. Orrie Rust, first president of Sherrouse PTA and Mrs. E. J. Upshaw, representing the faculty as the teacher with the longest tenure in the school.

Occupying the center of interest on the stage, displayed from a black wrought-iron easel, was an oil portrait of Mrs. Vincent. The portrait, a gift of the PTA, will be placed in the school in honor of her dedicated services to education.

Decorations in the room created a garden setting which was most effective. A flower fountain banked with pink hydrangea, stock, potted ferns and French ivy occupied the center of the room. Cascading from the fountain were pink roses and evergreen. Large rattan birdcages on the stage were filled with greenery and roses while baskets of magnolia leaves and fern were placed about the room.

Chairs placed around white iron tables centered with bowls of pink and red roses, were available for conversational groups.

The walls were most attractively decorated with samples of children's art work, all depicting spring.

Refreshments were served from identical tables having large centerpieces of colorful stock and asters in shades of pink, lavender, rose, white and yellow.

Serving coffee, punch and other party foods were: Miss Eloise Cann, Mrs. Floyd Kendrick, Mrs. Thurla Bordelon, Mrs. E. J. Brown, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Mrs. William Vincent, Mrs. Van Odom, Mrs. Loyce Gaar, Mrs. Vincent.

He said it would also be erroneous to see the council as "an indulgent acknowledgement of the weak and volatile relativistic mentality of a world without principles and without transcendental ends."

Recent Bride Introduced At Afternoon Tea

Mrs. Joseph Patten Brown Sr. of Lake Providence was hostess at a tea Saturday afternoon May 15 to introduce her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Patten Brown Jr., a recent bride.

Receiving at the entrance were the hostess, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Porter Jones of New Orleans.

For the occasion the honoree was wearing an aqua silk shift with wide pleated collar. Her shoulder corsage was of shasta daisies, tied with satin ribbon.

The Gaillard Plantation home was decorated throughout with arrangements of magnolias, shasta daisies and gardenias. Mrs. Max Stockner, Mrs. Ernest Parra and Mrs. Michael Brown assisted the hostess in the courtesies.

Covered with an imported linen cloth, bordered with lace, the refreshment table had as its central decor an arrangement of shasta daisies and Emerald fern in a low silver bowl, flanked by lighted tapers in silver candelabra.

Alternating at the coffee and sherry services were Mrs. J. E. Brown and Mrs. Dennis Brown, the first hour and Mrs. C. R. Evans and Mrs. O. S. Brown, the second hour.

A large number of guests called during the appointed hours to meet the honoree, who has recently come to Lake Providence to make her home.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Porter Jones, New Orleans; Mrs. W. H. Keller, Mrs. Charles Walker, Mrs. Edna McCormick, Mrs. Odell Roberts and Mrs. Harry Lafoe, Oak Grove and Mrs. Adeline Couch, Tallulah.

Sales, Marketing Awards Banquet Slated Tonight

A representative of the new management concept of the "top corporate marketing officer" will be the featured speaker for the annual Sales and Marketing Executive Club — Pi Sigma Epsilon Awards Banquet at the Frances Hotel tonight.

Harry L. Bullock, vice president of marketing for Skil Corporation, Chicago, will be the speaker at the annual event scheduled to be held at the Frances Hotel Roof at 7:30 p.m.

Some 200 persons attended last year's awards banquet and approximately the same number are expected for the 1965 program, according to Robert Harrison, member of the School of Business Administration faculty and adviser for the Northeast State chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon. Harrison is handling banquet reservations.

Bullock is one of the nation's top marketing executives. His marketing division has become the model copied by many firms.

As vice president of marketing, he is totally responsible for the company's product, physical distribution, product service sales, market research, order operation as well as both the internal and external sales organizations, advertising and public relations.

In addition to his many responsibilities at Skil, Bullock is vice president and director of the Sales-Marketing Executives of Chicago, vice president and director of the Electric Tool Institute, and an active member of Sales-Marketing Executives International. He has spoken before numerous sales and marketing groups, building a reputation of "laying it on the line" in his talks.

Jimmy Phillips of Jonesboro, president of the NLSC Pi Sigma Epsilon chapter, and John Rudisill, president of the local Sales and Marketing Executives Club, will serve as joint masters of ceremonies for the annual banquet.

Four awards will be presented to outstanding members of the Northeast PSE chapter. These include the organization's annual Merit Award, which goes to a top senior for service and scholarship; Past President's Award, given by the chapter's past presidents to the senior who has done the most to promote the organization; Top Pledge Award, and Top Salesman's Award.

Provisions Of Gun Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capsule information on the Johnson administration's bill to curb the mail-order market in guns:

Major provisions would:

—License all firearms dealers, importers and manufacturers and forbid them to ship weapons in interstate commerce except to others federally licensed, with some exceptions.

The Treasury Department contends the exceptions would permit the carrying or shipment of hunting guns across state lines, but opponents of the bill question whether this is clear.

—Prohibit the sale of firearms by licensees to persons under 21 years old, except that sporting rifles and shotguns could be sold to those 18 and older.

—Prohibit the sale of firearms other than sports weapons to persons not residing in the state where the licensee does business.

—Forbid convicted felons, fugitives and persons under indictment for felonies to ship or receive firearms across state lines.

—Impose tight curbs on the sale of weapons not suitable for sports purposes, including handguns, some larger-caliber and military weapons such as machineguns and 60mm weapons now offered for sale by some mail-order houses.

Bill's status: Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee just starting hearings on it, plans further hearings in early June; House Ways and Means Committee has indicated no early plans for hearings on similar bills.

Bill's prospects: Uncertain until after action on anticipated amendments in the subcommittee.

If you have a question you want answered, write or call "Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it along to you in this column.

How many years must a teacher be employed before he or she can take leave for further study? How much money would this teacher receive if his or her present salary while on leave?

A teacher must have taught at least four years to be eligible for one semester (one half year) of leave. Seven years of teaching is required for eligibility for one full school year's leave.

The pay a teacher would receive while on leave would vary with the teacher, because it would amount to the difference between what would be earned by the teacher and the amount a day to day substitute teacher would cost the school board.

When a regular teacher goes on extended leave, a substitute ordinarily is hired on a regular basis rather than day-to-day for the period of the regular teacher's absence. However, for purposes of calculating the regular teacher's pay while on leave, the day-to-day cost of a substitute is used.

During the early fall of 1964, the Ouachita Parish School Board unanimously passed a resolution to build a new library at the Calhoun High School. Since then nothing has been mentioned at the board meetings, nor has any construction been done. Could you please tell me why the library has not been constructed? Is it going to be built?

To begin with the latter part of the question, Supt. Milton C. Hall says the building will be built. As to the timing, he indicates that the board is conducting further study.

"The preference is to wait until a principal is named at Calhoun High school," he says. The former principal, J. E. Walker, was compelled by ill health to take a disability retirement, effective last January. A regular replacement was named this week.

The board will consult on the library with the new principal.

What are the boundary lines for the new Jack Hayes Elementary School? When will the board select the principal for this school? When will a school "round-up" be conducted in order to see how many students will attend?

Boundary lines for the new fall-opening facility have not been set as yet, but are under study by a school board committee headed by Gerald York, ward one. His report is expected within a month.

Also expected within a month, is the selection of a principal at Jack Hayes.

Setting of a roundup, officials report, will be a job for the new principal.

Why is there no inscription on diplomas from Northeast Louisiana State College to the effect that the student was an honor graduate? Also, why do they not designate honor students as cum laude, magna cum laude or summa cum laude?

It is a policy of the school to honor all students who maintain a 3.0 or "B" average, according to Dr. Lake Oxford, Northeast registrar.

"This policy gives more students an opportunity to be recognized at graduation ceremonies as honor graduates," he explained, "whereas if we required that they maintain a 3.5 or 3.9 average, only a few could be honored."

Special recognition is given at the graduation to all students with 3.0 or higher averages.

Can you tell what method to use to teach a cow to lead?

J. J. Joyce, Jr., Ouachita Parish county, said that there are several methods, and sometimes it is necessary to try all of them before finding one that will work effectively in a certain case. He suggested that the inquirer contact one of the agents at his office in the West Monroe Agricultural Building for further information, since a number of details would have to be explained and demonstrated.

Caskets Tossed On White House Lawn By Seamen

WASHINGTON (AP) — American seamen pitched two wooden boxes fashioned like caskets onto the White House lawn Friday afternoon.

The mock caskets bore these slogans:

"Don't bury the U.S. merchant marine."

"Revive the U.S. merchant marine."

White House policemen carried the boxes to a guardhouse where they were out of view of people walking along Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the White House.

After pitching the boxes over a high iron picket fence, the demonstrators boarded buses to return to their homes in New York City, Baltimore, Norfolk, and Philadelphia.

Earlier, some 1,500 pickets representing eight maritime unions had demonstrated before other government buildings against what they call "appealing" foreign governments at the expense of the American merchant marine.

How To Keep Well

YOUNG MARRIAGES

Approximately 40 per cent of all brides are teen-agers. Their average age is between 15 and 18, in contrast to that of the bridegroom, 19 and 21 years. Most of these girls are juniors and seniors in high school.

Early marriage and early parenthood tend to go together. Many are pregnant by the time they marry. The incidence of divorce is higher than average among this group—50 per cent break up within five years. Possible reasons include the large number of unplanned pregnancies and that many of them are not ready to care for a family. Times are different and the social stigma to be the first divorcee is rapidly changing.

The problem is not of age but of readiness. They are not able to assume the responsibility for others and are not capable of being economically independent. Teen-agers often live under the illusion that to fall in love implies readiness for marriage and that it is easier for a man to maintain a wife because women are able to get a good job. They also have the notion that modern birth control methods are infallible.

Are early marriages desirable? No, considering the high divorce rate and other hardships that develop. This is true when one or both partners show evidence of social immaturity and personal maladjustment. According to Dr. Mary S. Calderone, parents of teen-agers should be on the alert for signs of these traits. An example is the high-schooler who shows evidence of lack of stability and becomes a problem at home. Many of them are "early daters" or those who acquire a steady beau or girl friend. They become less and less interested in going to college because they lack the maturity to appreciate the importance of education in the years to come. They commit economic suicide when they drop out of school.

What is the answer? Young people must be prepared for marriage, regardless of when they marry. In addition, it takes more than apathy to condone this practice. Take a positive stand, depending upon the child. Ask yourself, "Are they ready?" The boy often is forgotten and no one helps him continue his development into manhood.

RESUSCITATION

T. G. writes: In mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, should the victim's head be turned to one side?

REPLY

Yes, slightly but keeping the chin up is a more important consideration. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on artificial respiration, which describes the mouth-to-mouth and other methods of resuscitation.

OVERWORKED HEART

C. E. writes: How does a toxic goiter affect the heart?

REPLY

Thru the toxic effect of too much thyroid, plus increase in metabolism, which makes the old ticker go at full speed. In time it shows signs of overwork unless the thyroid is brought under control.

POOR CIRCULATION

Mrs. J. B. F. writes: Is it possible to have neuralgia in the feet?

REPLY

Yes, Morton's disease is a neuralgia in which pain on the bottom of the foot stems from pressure on the nerves between the metatarsal bones.

NO CONNECTION

S. V. writes: Do poor teeth have anything to do with high blood pressure?

REPLY

No. Today's Health Hint — Fishing is a healthful, relaxing sport.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD . . . The FBI, reportedly seeking Phyllis McGuire for questioning about the activities of gangster Sam Giancano, will be able to find witnesses who have seen the singer and her middle-aged admirer together in Midtown New York restaurants — one a very popular Italian eating place, the other a swinging late spot with music — during the past few months . . .

Ann - Margaret will have to dis- obey her parents if she wants to marry Roger Smith before his California divorce becomes final a year from now; her folks don't hold with his quickie Mexican abrogation. However, there are many outside the presumably hyphenated family who will be delighted when they can call the young beauty "Mrs. Smith," instead of wondering whether it's "Miss Margaret," "Miss Ann - Margaret," "Miss X," or simply "Mademoiselle" . . .

Patriots wishing to have flagpoles erected on Saturdays will be interested to learn that flagpole workers get double time over weekends, if you can get them. It cost restaurateur Jilly $1,000 to have his huge "Von Ryan's Express" flag flown on 52nd St. in tribute to Frank Sinatra . . . A shocking scene that could develop into a front page starter takes place daily at one of New York's most popular museums . . . Goodman Ace, one of TV's top writers, makes his debut on Broadway next season with his adaptation of Hal Dresner's opus, "The Man Who Wrote Dirty Books." It's planned as a straight comedy.

Whatever the critics thought of the new musical, "The Roar of the Greasepaint," the Smell of the Crowd," many first nighters thought the producers made a grave mistake by making their premiere their Actors Fund benefit night. It is unfair to force Anthony Newley on the stage to compete with Paul Newman, Zero Mostel and Sammy Davis Jr. in the audience, and far too many people exited from the theatre saying it was, indeed, a remarkably glamorous opening, but the show in the audience was better than the show onstage.

The party afterwards was equally handicapped. It was held at Our Place, which does not open to the public until Tuesday night, and therefore was suddenly overwhelmed by too many people for whom it was not properly prepared. Also, a "cast" party after the premiere of a show must be one of two things: a) a genuine private party for the performers and other members of the company, closed to reporters for of handsome Les Crane and beautifully run press party at which the performers and celebrities from the audience appear for a reasonable time and mingle with the columnists, pose for pictures or otherwise gently generate publicity for the play.

The night's do at Our Place was an attempt at the latter, but it was not beautifully managed, despite the best efforts of handsome es Crane and his charming ex-wife. Too many people had been invited, not enough food had been prepared, the rock 'n' roll orchestra played with the volume of 10 Marine bands jammed into a telephone booth, and the result was hectic without being amusing.

I have a feeling that the character of Our Place will be changed rather suddenly in the not too distant future. It has the sound of a discotheque, but with its solid businessman's steakhouse decor it has not the

Heavy Overcast Cause Of Delay In Rocket Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Heavy clouds over the South Atlantic forced a 24-hour postponement Friday of an attempt to rocket a Project Fire spacecraft over a fiery ballistic course to measure the heat which will blister manned Apollo ships returning from the moon.

The launching of the Atlas booster was rescheduled for Saturday during a favorable firing period between 3:22 p.m. and 7:08 p.m.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration called off the shot when weathermen said there was little chance that cloud cover, ranging up to 95 per cent, would disperse to give trackers a clear view of the spacecraft as it re-entered the atmosphere near Ascension Island.

NASA wants to observe and photograph the 200-pound Apollo-shaped vehicle as it makes a 25,800-mile-an-hour dive back through the atmosphere from an altitude of more than 500 miles.

Speed Up War Against Disease, Humphrey Says

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey called Friday for an escalation in the war against disease.

In an address to the 16th annual Albert Lasker medical journalism awards luncheon, Humphrey declared:

"We must seek out and attack this enemy in his home base — wherever we find it."

The 1965 Albert Lasker awards were presented at the luncheon to Fred W. Friendly and Jay McMillen of the Columbia Broadcasting System, Matt Clark of Newsweek Magazine and Alton Blakeslee of the Associated Press and Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of the Chicago Board of Health.

"Some say," Humphrey said, "we will be able to tell the world that science has discovered the secrets of aging or of cancer or of muscular dystrophy or multiple sclerosis."

"That news will outrank in importance even the wonderful tidings that man has landed on the moon."

The vice president said that now before Congress is "the most comprehensive, enlightened program of health legislative ever recommended by an American president."

He said that foremost among the President's recommendations was the proposed establishment of multi-purpose regional medical complexes.

These complexes, he said, would assure excellence in research, education and patient care and provide services in every town and hamlet.

"We Americans believe in equality and in quality," the vice president said. "When life or death is at stake, there should be no second class citizens."

Airlines Decide Industry Wrongly Bears Tax Costs

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A spokesman for the airlines said Friday night the industry has concluded that it is unfairly taxed.

Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, said in a speech prepared for the National Defense Transportation Association that a strong and convincing case can be made to support the idea that user charges should be dropped not only for the airlines but for all forms of transportation.

Tipton aimed his remarks at administration proposals to obtain $227 million in added annual tax revenues from the airlines—$140 million from the 5 percent ticket tax, $77 million from a tax on aviation gasoline, $5 million from a tax on air freight shipments, and $75 million from a tax on jet fuels.

Tipton noted that on a wide variety of subsidy and subsidy-effect programs—for mail delivery, for stimulating oil and gas production, for government loan and research programs—recovery of government funds is not expected.

"In contrast with this general philosophy, the government collects user charges for use of the federal airways," Tipton said.

"For a long time the airlines have accepted the idea that they should pay their share of the cost of the airways system. Perhaps the time has come when this conclusion should be re-examined."

"After all, the airlines have surely done their part in achieving the national objectives which justified the airways system in the first place."

Tipton said the airlines have produced the world's finest air transport system and have risked $5 billion in invested capital.

"We should think again as to whether the public interest requires them to do any more," he said.

North Koreans Say Pilot Killed

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) — North Korean officials disclosed Friday that the pilot of an unarmed South Korean observation plane was killed when the aircraft was shot down over Communist territory.

They charged that Lt. Lim Seung-sam of the South Korean army was on a deliberate espionage mission when his F-119 was downed 25 miles inside Communist territory last Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. William C. Yarborough of the U. S. Army, speaking for the United Nations Command (UNC), denied that Lim had been on a spy mission. He said the plane strayed over North Korean territory inadvertently.

The Communists demanded the UNC concede in writing that the incident constituted an armistice violation. Yarborough refused to do this.

RELAXED TOO MUCH

ALDERSHOT, England (UPI) — Seventeen soldiers of the Royal Engineers fainted on parade during a ceremony in which the freedom of the borough was conferred on the regiment. Said a sergeant: "Don't be too hard on our men... they're really quite fit but they get so little ceremonial now that they don't know how to relax their muscles."

Bavarians Cheer Queen Elizabeth On Munich Visit

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth was cheered by hundreds of thousands of Bavarians Friday as she toured this birthplace of Nazism in defiance of threats against her safety.

The smiling queen, on a friendship tour of West Germany, stood in regal splendor in her big open limousine as it crawled through the crowds. The throng chanted "Elizabeth, Elizabeth" as she passed by.

Munich authorities, who had received letters threatening the queen, mobilized 3,500 police, units of mounted officer and 14 guard dogs to protect the monarch.

Police said the letters appeared to be the work of cranks. But they took no chances and even posted detectives atop the palaces and castle-like breweries of this beer capital of the world.

Police and security men surrounded the queen's car. They also sampled the lobster and duck on the queen's luncheon menu.

At a royal command performance at the Munich Opera Friday night, all 2,000 invited guests had to show their identification papers as well as their engraved invitations for the performance of "Der Rosenkavalier."

Even Army Bows To Love's Call; GI Gets Leave

PROSPECT, Conn. (AP) — Even the Army understands about love. So Pfc. Briglia Jr. is coming home from the Dominican Republic to attend his own wedding.

Jacqueline Zabbarro, 19, Briglia's fiancée, said she got the news Friday from Lt. Col. James F. McNab of the office of the Army chief of staff.

McNab said the commander of the 82nd Airborne Division, Frank's unit, decided to send Frank home after a letter that Jackie had written to President Johnson was forwarded to the Army from the White House.

Jackie had said McNab told her he'd call her Monday to let her know exactly when Frank would be home.

The wedding is planned for May 29, and Jackie and Frank thought everything was all set. Then, on May 4, Frank was sent to the Dominican Republic.

Jackie, who didn't want anything to ruin her wedding, sat down and wrote a letter to President Johnson. She explained the situation and asked if he could help. For good measure, she enclosed an invitation to the wedding.

Last night, she said she was still hoping, but "it all probably seems so trivial to the President."

Curbs Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Education and Labor Committee demanded Friday strict enforcement of the law that permits withholding funds from school districts that fail to desegregate.

A resolution by Rep. James A. O'Hara, D-Mich., called on the U.S. Commissioner of Education to ignore the protests of segregationist groups against the law—Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., said the resolution was unanimously approved.

Officers Search For Sex Slayer In New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second time this year, homicide officers fanned through the Washington heights sector Friday, seeking the savage sex slayer of a middle-aged woman.

The latest victim, Mrs. Pauline Lubetsky, 54, was slashed to death in the self-service elevator of an apartment building where she lived alone on West 162nd Street.

It was not immediately determined whether she had been raped. Her dress had been stripped from her and her underclothing was in disarray. Investigators called the slaying "savage and brutal."

Solon Rakes Perez Over Burning Coals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Louisiana Rep. T. A. Thompson termed Plaquemines Parish political leader Leander Perez Friday a self appointed dictator whose emotional tirades are damaging the state's national image.

The Seventh District congressman from Ville Platte said in a strongly worded statement that Perez "has been repudiated by the greatest patriots and Americans of our time."

Thompson's statement was in answer to one May 6 by Perez calling five members of the state's congressional delegation renegades who should be purged at the polls next year.

Perez singled out Thompson, Sen. Russell Long and Representatives Hale Boggs, James H. Morrison and Edwin E. Willis.

Perez, Louisiana's most outspoken segregationist, has seen fit to criticize and abuse anyone who disagrees with anything he believes will serve his own purposes," Thompson said. "And certainly his purposes can easily be evaluated for what they are by a review of his actions in the past."

Thompson said Perez not only has fought "against duly elected representatives of Louisiana, but he has been instrumental in stopping a tideland settlement which could have been had by the people of Louisiana a long time ago."

The congressman did not elaborate on this point.

"If anyone would care to check the records and evaluate the fortune he (Perez) has amassed over the years," the Thompson statement continued, "it would be clearly evident that his efforts for the most part has been in his own behalf, rather than in behalf of the people he claims to serve."

"I am convinced that Leander Perez feels that he is so well insulated by the vast personal fortune he has acquired that he can become a self appointed dictator over the thoughts of people."

Thompson said Perez in calling for the purge of elected officials had insulted the people who elected those officials.

"Inasmuch as he mentioned my name as one of those officials deserving his attack," Thompson said, "I must indicate publicly that I not only resent this insult to my people, but I personally resent it, and I want to state that Leander Perez may seek me out wherever and whenever he so desires."

"I will be available to protect and defend the interest of my people, myself and the whole United States against his emotional tirades."

At one time Perez "assumed such powers upon himself that he even put up a roadblock in defiance of orders from the governor of Louisiana to make available to the public the records of Plaquemines Parish," the Thompson statement added.

Thompson noted that Perez recently appeared on nationwide television to show "the dungeons and pits he has established for the express purpose of imprisoning people who might dare to enter his domain."

The reference was to Perez' threat to imprison any civil amassor over the years," the Thompson statement continued, "it would be clearly evident that his efforts for the most part has been in his own behalf, rather than in behalf of the people he claims to serve."

Crossett Paper Mill To Resume Operations Soon

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Construction of a 12-million gallon chemical reservoir will make it possible for the Georgia-Pacific Paper Mill here to resume operations in about two weeks.

Preliminary work on the earthen reservoir was started Friday. Around the clock excavation will begin today, according to Jack Meadows, manager of paper operations for the Georgia-Pacific Crossett operations.

An explosion on May 12 in a recovery boiler at the paper mill caused a reduction of about 30 per cent in Georgia-Pacific's pulp making facilities at Crossett.

As a result of the curtailment the bleached footboard mill was closed May 15. It was feared it would remain out of production until early August. Instead it will go back into production in about two weeks if the weather remains favorable.

About 75 paper mill employees were laid off work as a result of the mill's closing.

Instructor Collects Famous Engravings

By ROBERT SIMONTON
World Staff Writer

A series of engravings depicting various attitudes of the famous Spanish hero, Don Quixote, launched an interest in the fabulous collection of 49 engravings by the famous English artist, William Hogarth (1697-1764).

Marianne Gladney D'Artois, instructor in languages at Northeast Louisiana State College, purchased most of the engravings in Dublin, Ireland. Before starting her collection, she entered a shop there to inquire about a Hogarth "Marriage of Figaro" and unexpectedly learned she could acquire Hogarth's rare Quixote prints. She now has all engravings in the series of nine Quixotes.

Mrs. D'Artois, who has used her engravings for illustrations in classes and is always happy to display her collection, has had a varied and colorful background.

Besides being a linguistic expert, she is an amateur painter and writer.

She has an undergraduate degree from Centenary at Shreveport and a Master's from the Universidad de San Carlos in Guatemala, where she lived six years.

She was one of two persons selected from 2,000 applicants to study at Edinburgh, Scotland in 1963. She has also studied at the La Sorbonne in Paris and spent a summer in Spain and Portugal.

Included in her collection of works by Hogarth, considered the greatest engraver of his day, are a series of six interpretations of Harlot's Progress, eight of Rake's Progress and a set of unframed Hudibras impressions. They are more than 20 years old.

Yale and Harvard announced recently the joint publication of a portfolio that reproduces seven drawings by Hogarth taken from "The Beggar's Opera."

Mrs. D'Artois described one of her most appealing engravings. It is entitled "Midnight Modern Conversation" (1733), which depicts the various stages of drunkenness.

It was the first English print to be engraved and republished abroad, according to Mrs. D'Artois. Hogarth has been referred to as the first English artist known and admired abroad. His engravings were popular and sold well, but many of his pictures remained in his hands.

To emphasize that he was not a caricaturist, the following stanza was engraved on the plate "A Midnight Modern Conversation" after its publication:

"Think not to find one meant resemblance there;
We lash the vices, but the persons spare.
Prints should be priz'd, as authors should be read,
Who sharply smile prevail-ing Folly dead."

2 Persons Hurt As Cars Collide On Louisville

Two persons were injured Friday night in a two-auto collision on Louisville Avenue near St. Charles Street.

Injured were Davy Ann Senn, 16, of Rt. 4, Box 189, Monroe; and Charles R. Biggar, 17, of 1402 N. 7th St., Monroe. The two were treated and released at St. Francis Hospital.

Investigating officers of the Monroe police department said that Biggar, heading west on Louisville, collided with a car driven by Ellen S. Hilton, 38, of 304 Benton Ave., Monroe, which was stopped to make a left turn into a shopping center on Louisville.

The Senn girl was a passenger in the Hilton car. Biggar, alone in his car, was ticketed with negligent driving.

Officers placed the time of the accident at 8:59 p.m.

Miss West Monroe Pageant Is Tonight

The girls entered in the competition and their talent include Janis Lee Brumfield, piano, song and dance; Glenda G. Gates, "novelty dance"; Linda Dian Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie E. Williams, fire baton twirling; Linda Joan Tolbird, dramatic reading; Barbara Hoff, modern jazz dance; Nancy Lois Shell, piano; Patricia Ann Guraedy, song; Barbara Ann Koontz, dramatic reading; Beverly Kay Harris, vibraphone; Glenda Sue Young, jazz toe tap dance with fire baton; Patricia Kay Hammonds, dramatic reading; Bonnie Jo Newcomer, popular and classical selections on piano; Pamela Sue Gatlin, baton twirling; Linda Dianna Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Williams, dramatic reading; and Sara Jacquetta Lewis, modern jazz dance.

This is the first year that a beauty pageant has been staged in West Monroe and is being sponsored by the West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Miss Louisiana Beauty Pageant to be held here in July.

The contestants' schedule for today will start at 10:30 a.m. today for the official pageant registration and tea at the First National Bank building. The judges will review the girls during this time also.

The girls will leave the bank at 11:30 where they will then go to Highland Park Country Club for a luncheon with their sponsors. A parade is scheduled for 2 p.m. today through downtown West Monroe with each contestant riding in a car provided by the Jaycees. One of the features of the affair will be the appearance of Miss Cherie Martin, current Miss Louisiana.

Tonight judges will view the beauties in evening dress and bathing suits and watch them perform in the talent division.

The winner of the coveted title will be awarded a $150 scholarship, $100 in cash, a trophy and a chance to become the next Miss Louisiana.

Tickets may be purchased at the door.
